EVALYN KNAPP

FALL MAY END FILM CAREER

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 22.—(INS.)—Miss Evalyn Knapp, beautiful young film actress, was reported in a critical condition today, her spine fractured in a 30-foot plunge from a cliff.

Miss Knapp was hiking in Hollywood Heights with her young brother, Stanley, when she fell and struck her back on a rocky ledge. She may never be able to appear before a camera again.

Miss Knapp, renowned for her beauty in George White's Scandals, came to Hollywood last April from New York and achieved her greatest part playing the feminine lead with George Arliss in "The Millionaire."

Wrestler Arrested In Street Fight

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Wladek Zbyszko, professional wrestler, was arrested last night when he became involved in a street fight between a taxicab driver and a pedestrian.

Zbyszko tried to separate the driver, Sam Kleinberg, from the angry pedestrian, who had narrowly escaped being struck by Kleinberg's taxicab. Kleinberg objected to the wrestler's interference and struggled with him.

Zane Grey to Face Dun on Income Tax

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—Zane Grey, sportsman and novelist, will find a request for a payment of $103,923 additional income taxes awaiting him when he returns from his South Seas fishing cruise next fall. Grey and his wife made separate returns, and the government contends he alone should have paid the tax.

MEN CAPTURED SOON AFTER ROBBERY

Police Pick Up Brodcast Of Downtown Theft, Soon Spot Fleeing Automobile

The police broadcasting system brought about the capture of three alleged holdup men early today, an hour after Dow's drug store at Diamond and Smithfield streets, was robbed of approximately $1,000. A description of the bandits' automobile and its occupants, spread by radio within 10 minutes of the holdup, resulted in the arrest of the suspects. A fourth suspect was arrested a few hours later.

Charles Grimes, of 223 South Aiken avenue, night manager of the store, estimated the loot at $1,200. Police who arrested the trio said they recovered $817 in cash.

FORCED TO AID ROBBERS

Because he was unable to open a small safe in the office of the store, Grimes was compelled to help one of the robbers carry the strongbox from the balcony office to the automobile parked in Diamond street, four doors below Smithfield street.

As the robbers sped off, Grimes and Jerry Doyle, 412 Boulevard of the Allies, a pedestrian, obtained a description which was given to police. An hour later, Lieut. George Pischke and Pa-

Auto, Truck Crash, Two in Hospital

George Brown, 57, and John Matterson, 62, both of 623 Hale street, are in Pittsburgh Hospital from injuries incurred when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a truck at North Murtland avenue and Kelley street. The machine was said to have been driven by Charles A. Brown, 28. V. E. Lowe, 40, of 1215 North Lang avenue, was declared by police to be the driver of the truck. Charles A. Brown and Lowe were arrested charged with reckless driving.

2-3 of U. S. Income Spent in Stores

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(INS.)—Total sales by retail stores in the country during 1930 reached $50,000,000,000, a figure approximating two-thirds of the annual income, and five times the value of the farm crop, the Department of Commerce announced today in presenting an exhaustive census of distribution.

The census showed the average per capita purchase through retail stores to have been $407.52.

Brussels Offered Million by Eastman

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 22.—(AP.)—The City of Brussels is considering the offer of a fund of $1,000,000 by George Eastman, of Rochester, N. Y., for erection of a great dental institution. One of the conditions of the offer is that the city supply an equal amount toward the project.

Mr. Eastman has made similar donations to Paris, Berlin and London.

Air Jumper Plunges To Grave, Climbs Out

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—Barron Brodine, 19-year-old student parachute jumper of Pittsford, leaped today at 2,000 feet from a plane, pulled the rip-cord and floated gently to the ground—to land in a freshly-dug grave in White Haven Cemetery, adjoining the flying field.

Tarantula Takes Nap, Awakens on Way to Zoo

Officials at Highland Park Zoo have been notified to get a South American tarantula which was surprised while it was taking a nap in a bunch of bananas by H. T. Clutter, grocer, of 1201 Woodland avenue, North Side.

This is the second time Clutter has added to the family at the zoo. He found a small boa constrictor in bananas in 1929.

FRANCE BALKS AT HOOVER'S DEBT PLAN

President 'Stampeded' by Fears Over Situation in Germany, Paris Believes

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

PARIS, June 22.—France, holding in its hands the fate of President Hoover's "world-debt-holiday" plan, gave a cool reception to the proposal for a one-year-postponement of inter-government obligations.

Already formally accepted by Germany and Britain, all other nations concerned indicated today their indorsement of the Hoover project.

DEPUTIES STIRRED

Here, however, the corridors of the Chamber of Deputies fairly bristled with unfavorable comment when the French legislators convened for discussion of the project.

The general tendence of French opinion was to regard the debt postponement proposal as a "German diplomatic victory," believing that President Hoover had been stampeded into making his proposal by America's fear that the economic-financial situation in Germany was in danger of driving that country into the arms of Bolshevism, thus endangering American capital invested in Germany.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The militant figure of France, hard bent as always upon making Germany pay for the war, appeared the only nation today to be in a position to block President Hoover's proposal for a year's holiday from war debts.

All of the other major powers have either definitely or tacitly agreed to the American proposal, but the French attitude is one of extreme coolness.

M. Claudel, the French ambassador, was closeted with Secretary of State Stimson for a short time today. He was non-committal, saying he called only to obtain from Stimson more details about the American offer with which to acquaint his government.

His visit followed that of the British ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay; the Italian ambassador, Giacomo di Martino, and M. Prochnik, the Austrian minister. Both Britain and Italy have informally agreed to it, and the Austrian conveyed his country's acceptance formally to Secretary Stimson.

Whether the French will upset the plan remains to be seen, of course, but the tone of press dispatches and such private communications as have been received here from Paris caused some anxiety. It was intimated in these dispatches that the French were disposed to ask for guarantees that payments would

DR. JAMES CARMON AT WILDWOOD TREATING STRIKER JOE JENDERSOK, 41, SHOT IN ABDOMEN DURING A MINE BATTLE

12 HURT IN CLASH WITH WILDWOOD GUARDS

150 March on Plant in Defiance of Court Order; Women Engage in Battle

One man was killed and 12 wounded in a pitched battle between strikers and Allegheny County deputy sheriffs at the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal Company at daybreak. Forty-one persons, including two women, were arrested.

One of the deputies was injured.

More than 100 shots were exchanged between the deputies and a mob of about 150 striking miners and women, said to have been led by National Miners' Union organizers, enjoined last week in Common Pleas Court from picketing the mine.

The demonstration was planned yesterday at a mass meeting in Acmetonia, addressed by William Z. Foster, national secretary of the Trades Union Unity League, affiliated with the National Miners' Union.

MINER SLAIN

Four of the wounded gave their names at the West Penn Hospital as Peter Brown, 35, of Russellton; Charles Bestwick, 44, of Wildwood; Robert Young, of New Kensington, and Adolph Walter. Another wounded was identified through his check as Nick Evanosick and the sixth as John Obrowski, 30, of Wildwood.

Joe Jendersok was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. Stanley Mikoski, of Harmarville, was taken to the Citizen's General Hospital at New Kensington.

The others wounded are Charles Adamich, Gibsonia; Gus Ignozzi, New Kensington, and Paul Borsuck, Arnold. Adamich, arrested later by a state trooper, said he stepped on a nail while fleeing for safety.

The injured deputy is Herbert Reel. He was treated at the scene and was able to return to the sheriff's office.

WOMEN ARRESTED

Those arrested were brought to the sheriff's office, where it was said charges of rioting and violation of Judge H. H. Rowand's injunction would be lodged against

WIFE, DIVORCED, HURT IN FALL

LOS ANGELES, June —(AP.)—Mrs. Juanita [illegible] ner Crosland, divorced wife of [illegible] Crosland, film director, was being treated today for injuries received in a fall yesterday from the third story window of a hotel here.

Attendants said her fall was due to a fainting spell and that her condition is not serious. Leonard Stillman and John Mace, who were in a room adjoining Mrs. Crosland's, insisted, however, that she had been hysterical for an hour, sobbing in a loud voice about asserted injustices leading to the divorce and loss of her child.

The Croslands were divorced in February, 1930, at Cannes, France, Mrs. Crosland charging cruelty and desertion. He was married the following December to Natalie Moorhead, film actress.

Mrs. Crosland, divorced wife of Alan Crosland, film director now married to Natalie Moorhead, Peabody High School (Pittsburgh) girl. She was injured in a three-story plunge from a Los Angeles hotel.

Wounded Deputy Describes Battle

Deputy Sheriff Herbert Reel, the attack upon whom precipitated the strike riot at Wildwood this morning, told his version of the affair. He said:

"When I saw the woman throw a stone at a car coming down the road, I went after her. She ran into her house as the crowd closed about me. I threw a tear gas bomb into the house to drive her out and the crowd came closer.

"Someone hit me with a stone. Almost blinded by the blood streaming down my face, I fired my gun into the air.

"The other deputies had to fire into them to get to me.

"After I was free, the mob continued to throw stones at us, despite our fire, but finally, we were able to drive off more than half of them and surround most of the rest before the state police arrived.'

MINERS BATTLE IN GRANT ST.

Tear gas bombs were hurled by police at Second avenue and Grant street today, when three men, said to be striking miners, attacked a truck carrying seven men to a West Virginia mine.

A crowd of 500 collected at the point and swarmed onto the ramp of the Boulevard of the Allies. Two of the alleged assailants escaped. Police captured one man, who said he was Tony Cikoja, 34, of 2 Grant street. He was fined $25 by magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court.

The seven men had been loaded into the truck at a Second avenue employment agency, and had just left the office when three men hopped aboard and began beating the occupants. Lieuts. Thomas Gross and Hugh Lavery with a squad of police charged the crowd. One man hurled a brick at Lieut. Gross. After peace had been restored the men on the truck continued on their way to work.

Pearson Resigns State Highway Post

HARRISBURG, June 22.—(AP.)—The resignation of Charles Pearson, of Dormont, Allegheny County, as director of publicity in the State Highway Department, has been accepted, the governor's office announced today. Debt Plan Rallies Stocks In All World Markets

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Caught up by the spirit of optimism that swept the world's markets today as a result of President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal, Wall street celebrated in characteristic fashion the appearance of the sunshine through the clouds of gloom.

Stocks boiled lustily, stopping now and then for a bit of profit-taking, but coming out of each recession with renewed enthusiasm for the advance and hundreds of shares touched quotations that were $2 to $10 a share above the Saturday close.

Bonds, particularly those of German origin, were buoyant. Cotton, not to be outdone, soared $2.50 to $3 a bale. Other commodities responded with less spectacular gains.

It was a wild opening on the stock exchange. Blocks as large as 20,000 shares changed hands at advances running up to $15 and there was no letup in the pace until the first half hour had been passed. The turnover during that period was 1,000,000 shares.

Profits began to be taken quickly and reactions of a dollar or two from the early highs developed. However, by early afternoon another upward drive was in progress, although this, too, encountered a reaction as traders hastened to accept fat profits.

United States Steel common and American Telephone soared $4 a share.

Rome reported gains of 5 to 10 points.

In Paris, despite reported government opposition to the Hoover plan, quotations rose 10 per cent in several instances and the closing was firm.

Woman Urged Strikers On, Battle Witness Asserts

A woman precipitated the clash between strikers and deputies at Wildwood this morning, according to eye-witness reports of the battle.

Miss Gertrude Christy, 25, of Wildwood, told how she and her mother cowered in fear while bullets whistled and sang around their home. She said:

"We were awakened by the sound of shooting. I saw a big crowd milling around in front of our house.

"I saw eight deputy sheriffs on one side of the road. They were firing into the crowd across from them. We could hear the bullets whizzing around and my mother pulled me down back of the window for safety. There we stayed until the trouble subsided."

Another witness, refusing to identify himself, gave the following account:

"About 80 men were lined up in the Gibsonia road and about 70 in the Wildwood road. Sitting apart from the strikers in Gibsonia road was a woman, yelling and urging the men to stone an oncoming car.

"They threw stones at the machine, knocking the windows out, and as they did, Deputy Sheriff Reel went after the woman. The crowd surrounded him and he started to shoot. Then the battle started.

"I saw two men go down, wounded. When I went to look at them, the deputies ordered me back. They lay on the ground fully 20 minutes before anybody came to help them."

them. Chief Deputy Sheriff V. B. Coffey was in conference with Attorney B. Robert Avehbach, solicitor for the sheriff's office, to determine how the charges would be filed.

Hurling stones and berating miners who refused to lay down their tools in response to a strike call of the National Miners' Union, the mob of men and women advanced on the mine shortly after daylight. They mobilized in the hills around Wildwood, coming from Springdale, Harmarville, Acmetonia, New Kensington and other Allegheny River strike towns. Scores were reported to have passed through Springdale in trucks this morning.

Eye-witness accounts of the battle revealed the howling mob of men and women charged down on the deputies in the highway about a quarter mile from the mine. Tear gas bombs were laid down in their path, but they came on with a rush, it was said.

STRIKERS OPEN FIRE

Scattering shots were reported fired from the ranks of the strikers and from nearby houses.

The column faltered, the wounded blocking its progress. Shots were returned from the crowd. The deputies continued firing into the air. The interchange of shots and bricks lasted about 10 minutes.

The crowd broke and fled in all directions. The deputies followed, hurling tear gas and firing. Some of the rioters fled into the houses and deputies pursued them, bringing them out as prisoners.

The deputies were in charge of William E. Braun.

There were three deputy sheriffs and seven special officers, newly recruited for strike duty.

Seven mine guards were at the company office awaiting reinforcements from the sheriff's office in anticipation of trouble. A few minutes before their arrival, reports were brought into the company office that miners on their way to work were being stoned.

At the mine deputies were investigating the trouble. The extra force of officers arrived under Braun. They went immediately to the scene and were met with a barrage of stones. In the melee Reel was struck.

MEET AT ACMETONIA

Plans for the march on Wildwood were made yesterday during a mass meeting in Acmetonia, scene of fatal rioting at the outset of the mine strike three years ago. It was the shooting of State Trooper John J. Downey that set off a series of disorders throughout Western Pennsylvania that attracted nation-wide attention and precipitated a United States Senate investigation.

Foster now is secretary of the Trades Union Unity League, another admitted Communistic organization. The meeting followed a picnic, just as the 1928 gathering, which had been called to arouse sympathy for Sacco and Vanzetti, executed for murder in Massachusetts a short time later.

Demonstrations were staged throughout the strike zone today, with hundreds of men, women and children mobilizing at Bentleyville during the night for mass picketing on two mines of the Vesta Coal Company at Richeyville and Fredericktown. The marches got under way before daylight, the strikers singing songs and yelling to miners at work to join the strike.

RIVAL UNIONS CLASH

A pitched battle between followers of the National Miners' Union and adherents of the United Mine Workers of America was staged in the roadway at Mollenauer yesterday, according to a report to state police.

The trouble is said to have started when Earl Opperman, a United Mine Worker, complained to authorities about a Negro follower of the National Union carrying a knife. The Negro and a companion, it is alleged, attacked Opperman and another United Mine Worker named Walker, beating them. No arrests were made.

A short time later, women and children stoned a meeting of the United Mine Workers, it was reported, but nobody was hurt.

The second bombing within two days of coal company property early today did slight damage to the powder house of Vesta Mine No. 4, of the Vesta Coal Company at Daisytown. The bomb splintered a wall of the building, but did not set off powder and caps stored there.

Dramatic Critic Wins Peace Prize

PARIS.—The Strassburger prize of $1,000 for the newspaper article for the year 1930 best calculated to promote friendly relations between France and the United States was awarded this year to Paul Achard, well-known dramatic critic and publicist.

Achard was given the reward this year for his articles entitled "Tete with America," written as a refutation of the Duhamel book which was distinctly unfriendly in tone and showed traces of hasty writing and even hastier investigation.

SHAW SEES U. S. GET NOTHING

LONDON, June 22.—(INS.)—The United States will be lucky if she doesn't have eventually to come to Europe's rescue to save her from complete financial oblivion, George Bernard Shaw, the famous playwright, told International News Service over the telephone today.

Speaking from his summer home in Hertforshire, Mr. Shaw asked:

"Do I understand that Mr. Hoover is going to wait for our money for one year?"

When informed that he was correct, he said, with a chuckle:

"Well, I think that the United States will be lucky if payments are resumed at the end of one year. Indeed, I think that the United States will be very lucky if payments are resumed at the end of five years. I also believe that America will be exceedingly lucky if she gets anything at all and does not have to come to Europe's rescue to save her from complete financial oblivion."

BANKERS HERE INDORSE DEBT MORATORIUM

Hail It as Constructive Step Toward Restoration of Normal Trade Conditions

President Moover's plan for a one-year suspension of foreign war debt payments today was hailed as a most constructive step toward a restoration of normal business activity by leading Pittsburgh bankers.

A. C. Robinson, president of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, declared:

"It is a wonderful step forward. It may be the turning point toward a general business revival.

"There is no doubt about the fact that Germany has her back against the wall. There are only two alternatives. We must help her or allow her to break under the strain and sink into Bolshevism.

"It is always better to give debtors a chance to pull themselves out of a hole than to foreclose. Bankruptcy comes only after all else has failed."

Hearty approval of the plan was also given by Frank F. Brooks, president of the First National Bank at Pittsburgh, who said:

"I am entirely in accord with the suspension of debts. It might be better to give Germany a longer period of time, but I think that the plan is a step in the right direction.

"It most certainly will have a favorable effect on business conditions in this country. It is one of the helpful and constructive pieces of work which will go a long way toward the restoration of normal business conditions."

John F. Miller, president of the Bank of Pittsburgh, declared that the plan for the suspension of war debt payments is a good thing. He predicted that it would be a factor in stabilizing business in this country as well as abroad. He also said that it would exert a highly favorable psychological effect on business on the economic situation.

BRITAIN AGREES TO DEBT TRUCE

LONDON, June 22.—(INS.)—President Hoover's proposal for a holiday for a year all around on inter-governmental debt payments was whole-heartedly accepted "in principle" today by the British government and all political parties of the country.

Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald issued a formal acceptance, in principle, of the American proposal and promised full co-operation to give practical effect to the plan at the earliest possible moment.

ARNO TO ALLOW WIFE DIVORCE

RENO, Nev., June 22.—(AP.)—Peter Arno, New York cartoonist, who figured in the Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., divorce case, was expected to hold the center of the stage today while further legal action on the part of the Vanderbilts is held in abeyance.

Attorneys said Arno, having completed the six weeks residence required by law, probably would file suit for divorce from Lois Long Arno, a writer.

Mrs. Arno is expected to contest the action, it having been reliably reported that she will file a crosscomplaint and that Arno will consent the decree be granted to her. Mrs. Arno would not be required to be present in court.

William Woodburn, counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt, has announced that "legal steps" will be taken tomorrow to combat the divorce action begun by her husband on grounds of extreme cruelty. While he would not say just what action was contemplated, the usual procedure is to file a cross-complaint and ask for a bill of particulars.

BERLIN DEFAULT FORESTALLED

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

LONDON, June 22.—President Hoover's action in calling for a suspension of war debts payments forestalled the declaration by Germany of a moratorium effective July 1, the International News Service was informed by circles close to Downing stree today.

The German cabinet had already decided upon the moratorium, which was permissable under the terms of the Young plan. Such an action of Germany's part, however, would have inflicted another blow at her credit and perhaps intensified the international run on the Reichsbank by private foreign creditors.

Union Leaders Deny Cars Now on Streets Are Being Operated by 'Deserters'

The Parmelee Transportation Company today declared that 150 of its 950 striking taxicab drivers have returned to work. The drivers' union insisted its membership still is firmly united in the walkout.

And that was the situation as Pittsburgh's second taxi strike in little more than a year started its tenth day.

While the striking drivers held a meeting in Moose Temple, attended by about 250 drivers, more than 100 cabs cruised the downtown district yesterday.

Service was to be extended to East Liberty and North Side districts today.

POLICE GUARD HALL

A heavy police guard was thrown about the Moose Temple during the meeting. This included several radio cruiser cars and under personal supervision of Assistant Supt. of Police Ben R. Marshall.

Paul D. Houston, president of the Yellow Cab Company, said yesterday 30 more old drivers will take out cabs this morning.

Houston said:

"We had 120 cabs out Saturday and will have 150 out today. The cabs are all being driven by old drivers returning to work."

The meeting yesterday was attended by about 250 drivers. Newspapermen were not admitted.

FATHER COX SPEAKS

After the session, J. J. Ely, official spokesman for the union, gave out a list of speakers. He said the meeting was a "rally" and that among other things discussed was the disappearance of Fred Schaffer, business agent of the union. Ely said:

"The Schaffer business will have no effect on the strike."

The list of speakers Ely gave out included J. J. Cain, business agent of the Pressmen's Union; George Siebert, Pile Drivers and Dock Builders Union; P. J. McGrath Street Car Men's Union; the Rev. James R. Cox, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church; John Hoehm, Union Label Council; F. W. Weible, Barbers' Union; Miss M. Emmilinne Pitt, Federal labor conciliator, and Peter Bollenbacher, state labor representative, and M. J. Burns, president, and John Stackhouse, secretary, of the taxicab union.

FRANCE MAY UPSET PLAN

NO GUARANTEES

The administration's answer to that was there would be no guarantees forthcoming. The United States, it was pointed out, has a bigger stake in the resumption of payments than France, and is just as interested, if not more so, than France in seeing to it that war debts are paid. Europe's debt to the United States totals some $20,000,000,000 and a moratorium on all debts would cost this country about $245,000,000 a year. The national deficit today stood at $879,168,571. A moratorium would mean suspension of around $100,000,000 during the year to France.

Meanwhile, France's attitude must be considered in doubt. The President's plan was officially described here as being not a subject for international negotiation. Consequently, France can take it or leave it. If she rejects it, the onus will be upon her.

NEXT STEP AWAITED

While the President's move was approved on all sides in Washington, by Democrats and Republicans alike, there was a disposition today to question what is to be the next step in the program.

Many believe that the one-year suspension, while of undoubted value as an emergency measure, will prove too short for Germany's economic rehabilitation. It will, it is true, provide her and the world with a much-needed "breathing spell" in which to repair some of the ravages of the last year, but the question was asked today:

"What will happen if at the end of a year Germany and Europe are still in the morass of depression? Will the one-year moratorium be extended for another year?"

EMERGENCY MEASURE

To these questions there was n answer from an official source The President's plan, it was said was a purely emergency measur and did not indicate any majo shift in American policy towar Europe and its problems, o toward the whole involved ques tion of reparations and debts.

President Hoover took particu lar pains in his statement Satur day night to make it clear that h did not even wish to remotel suggest any cancellation or reduc tion of Europe's funded indebted ness to the United States. Thi was put into his statement at th insistence of congressional lead ers with whom he conferred m most continuously for two day

GEORGIA MAYOR CALLS DRYS 'NIT-WITS'

Assails Atlanta Foes Who Criticized His Views on Prohibition; Beer Judged

NEW YORK, June 22.—Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, Ga., returning today with 18 others from a month's goodwill tour of France, characterized as "hair-brained nit-wits" some of his opponents at home who have criticized his utterances on prohibition and started a move for his recall. He said:

"Prohibition is corrupting the people and the government of the United States from top to bottom. Is is one of the finest pieces of idealism the world has ever seen. The trouble is that, like a good many other examples of idealism, its practical effect is not so good."

DRINKING OWN BUSINESS

Mayor John Porter, of Los Angeles, whose refusal to drink champagne while in France caused almost as much comment as Mayor Key's anti-prohibition remarks, observed:

"If the French people want to drink, that's their business, and if I don't, that's my business."

Most of the other mayors had little to say beyond a formal statement of gratitude to their host, the French government. Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, of Milwaukee, said he thought the beer in France was excellent but not so good as the beer that used to be made in Milwaukee, and Judge Frank M. Paddon, representing the city of Chicago, remarked that he'd seen less drunkenness in France than in the United States. He added:

BIBLE CLASS LOYAL

ATLANTA, June 22.—(AP.)—Mayor James L. Key, whose criticism of prohibition while he was in Paris as a guest of the French government started a flood of both approval and disapproval here, will be welcomed back to Atlanta by his Bible class of the Grace Methodist church as "a great statesman and a fine Christian gentleman."

CITY FOOD QUIZ TURNS TO DATA ON PARKE

Grand Jury to Question Secretary of Firm Which Got High Bid Orders

Examination of the books of the L. H. Parke Company, from whom the city Department of Supplies made numerous purchases even though it was not the lowest bidder, will be made tomorrow when the grand jury resumes its investigation of Pittsburgh's buying methods. Miss Bertha Bennett, assistant secretary and treasurer of the company, will arrive in Pittsburgh late today with the papers which the grand jury has requested.

F. L. Stonecipher, one of Pittsburgh counsel for the Parke Company, said:

"As far as the Parke Company is concerned, they will open the books to the grand jurors for examination. They have nothing to conceal."

While the grand jury disposes of a number of routine cases of Criminal Court, Special Prosecutor Earl F. Reed and the auditors of Main and Company were studying the testimony of witnesses who have testified. Reed planned to confer with Assistant District Attorneys George F. P. Langfit and Harry E. Phillips, upon the program for tomorrow.

MAYVIEW DATA

The spotlight of the investigation will probably be turned on the City Home and Hospital at Mayview. Dr. J. S. Hammers, superintendent, and W. C. Clydesdale, storekeeper, have been subpenaed.

The warehouse at Mayview is the receiving point for a large volume of city supplies. The $10,000 order of canned goods purchased from the L. H. Parke Company without bids was delivered there last fall and is still held for the Department of Supplies.

Large quantities of other foodstuffs, including butter, eggs, meat and groceries are delivered at Mayview. The Price-Waterhouse report pointed out that perpetual inventory records have not been maintained to keep an adequate check of the actual supplies at hand.

Inspection was also mentioned, the report calling attention to the fact that where this is left to the steward and storekeeper at Mayview, they have been handicapped by lack of knowledge as to what has been specified.

LOW BID IGNORED

Even the shelves in the warehouse were not purchased from the low bidder, according to records in the controller's office. An official and salesman of the General Fireproofing Company testified before the grand jury last week. Tabulations show the firm was low bidder on the shelving contract, it is said.

Dealers who sold the city furniture for Mayview have already testified. It is believed meats, groceries, oil, gasoline and lumber purchases made through the Department of Supplies will be taken up before the conclusion of the probe.

DISABLED SUB ENDS PERILOUS OCEAN TRIP

Men Exhausted by Long Battle Against Stormy Seas; All Well Aboard

COBH, Ireland, June 22.—(INS.)—Unkempt and exhausted by their trying experiences at sea, members of the crew of the submarine Nautilus sat on the deck devouring sandwiches while a tug towed the craft six miles into Cobh harbor today.

Sir Hubert Wilkins, leader of the hardy band of nautical men who left the United States to keep a "date" with the Graf Zeppelin at the North Pole, told interviewers that all was well aboard the submarine.

The U. S. S. Wyoming, which towed the submersible from mid-Atlantic, disengaged the Nautilus off Cobh harbor after exchanging formal greetings with the British destroyer Sturdy.

The submarine will remain at Cobh until its batteries are recharged, after which it will proceed to an English port for overhauling at a shipyard.

Wilkins Tells Story Of Dramatic Rescue

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS

By Radio Via American Radio News Corporation and Radiomarine Corporation.

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAUTILUS AT SEA, June 22.—Breezes sweeping towards us fresh and fragrant from the Irish hills and dells are now wafting away the outer veils of the nightmare which for two weeks has been hanging about us.

It is but two weeks reckoned by the calendar, but it is like years in experience and memory.

Thanks to the prompt response of the United States Navy, the courtesy of Admiral Block, of the Arkansas, and Capt. Button, of the Wyoming, and the stout hearts and ability of the members of our own brave crew, we are now safe.

The crew stood it bravely and would probably have carried through by force of will had it not been for the touch of sickness of poisoning that struck most of us. The sickness resulted from the use of leftovers in the galley and which in the dimness due to reduced light must have slipped into our last "Mulligan."

TROUBLE BREWING

Our troubles had been brewing for us from the time we left Provincetown with a leaking cylinder. It was a question whether we should put back to Philadelphia and replace it there or whether we should carry on.

The cylinder was belted and braced as well as possible and it held us for five days.

One strong thrust from the motor turned her over and then bang went the doctored cylinder.

Had the engine been running at that moment it might have wrecked the whole compartment, to say nothing of endangering the lives of the men.

However, we figured that the starboard motor, with full batteries, would still be in commission. But then came the catastrophe when we discovered that our port motor wobbling on its bearings due to the shifting of internal parts which we would be unable to replace and we would not be able to generate current for our batteries.

ATLANTIC STORM

By this time we were in bad weather. It was a real Atlantic snorter.

Our fuel oil became fouled and as there was no time to carefully strain the oil, in a few hours some damage had been done to the engine.

With one engine and the opposite main motor gone, our air banks down, our batteries low, and we still a thousand miles from land, we were in a desperate fix.

Capt. Danenhower thought it wise to signal the passing Independence Hall and ask her to stay with us.

As usual our excitement grew as the danger lessened. The Independence Hall signaled the battleship Arkansas, on which was Midshipman Danenhower, son of our captain. That battleship communicated with the U. S. S. Wyoming, and they both turned and plunged in our direction.

DRAMATIC RESCUE

As they approached us the fog closed down about us. They kept locating us by wireless. Most of our men were confined below, with angry seas beating on our decks.

The situation was dramatic, intense and thrilling. To see those two great gray ships gave us a sense of comfort, but the seas were too heavy at first for them to come close aboard or to take a line.

We chugged along almost cheerfully, our port engine still running, not realizing that our worst time was yet to come. Since then we have been towed and broken loose; almost swamped and drenched with oil and water; hungry in the sight of food; miserably uncomfortable and tired almost to exhaustion.

Later I will tell that tale. Now we are sensing the hospitality of Ireland. Erin Go Bragh!

POWELL, MOVIE STAR TO WED

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—William Powell, screen detective and former resident of Pittsburgh, tried in vain to elude newspapermen in attempting to file a notice of intention to wed.

With his bride-to-be, Carole Lombard, film actress—Carol Jane Peters in real life—he tried to slip into the marriage license bureau.

The wedding date has not been set.

INSULL HERE WEDNESDAY

Martin J. Insull, of Chicago, president of the Middle West Utilities Company, will speak at a luncheon of the Combined Service Clubs of Pittsburgh at noon Wednesday, June 24, in Pirate Hall, William Penn Hotel.

The luncheon is under the auspices of City Post No. 59, American Legion. A round table of presidents or representatives of the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, Monarch, Co-Operative and other Pittsburgh service clubs will meet to hear Insull speak. They will also discuss various civic and beneficial movements where combined or co-operative methods of Pittsburgh service clubs would be valuable.

Coolidge Deplores Spread Of Central Government

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 22.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The centralization of power in Washington which nearly all members of Congress deplore in their speech and then support by their votes steadily increases. The latest report is that the federal employment service will have a bureau in every state and the District of Columbia. The farmer who was the shining example of sturdy independence has entrusted the government with finding him a market. Now the wage earner is to look to the same source to find employment. Individual self-reliance is disappearing and local self-government is being undermined.

Mr. Coolidge

A revolution is taking place which will leave the people dependent upon the government and place the government where it must decide questions that are far better left to the people to decide for themselves. Finding markets will develop into fixing prices and finding employment will develop into fixing wages. The next step will be to furnish markets and employment or in default pay a bounty and dole. Those who look with apprehension on these tendencies do not lack humanity, but are influenced by the belief that the result of such measures will be to deprive the people of character and liberty.

STATE GERMANS BACK HEARST LOAN PLAN

Convention Here Indorses $5,000,000,000 Fund to Stimulate Prosperity

Indorsement of the $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan proposed by William Randolph Hearst as a means of relieving the unemployment situation in the United States was a feature of the closing session of the German American Federation of Pennsylvania convention yesterday. The convention was held in the hall of the Beltzhoover Singing Society, Curtin avenue, and was attended by more than 200 delegates.

"Whereas, it has recently been suggested by one of our leading national figures—William Randolph Hearst—that the government of these United States of America float a $5,000,000,000 loan to be expended for public improvements and thus relieve the unemployment situation and, incidentally, lift the depression, said debt to be repaid largely by the collection of taxes on beer and wines, the legal manufacture of which will in turn help the unemployment situation:

"Therefore, Be It Resolved, that we, the German-American Federation of Pennsylvania, in convention assembled, do hereby declare in favor of said Hearst idea and urge its adoption; and, further, we do hereby notify the President, Senate and Congress of the United States of our action."

The following officers were elected at the conference: President, Fred C. Gartner, of Philadelphia; vice presidents, Reinhard Ullrich, of Pittsburgh, and Frank Diebold, of Johnstown; secretary, Max Moll, of Philadelphia; treasurer, Gottlob Hammer, of Philadelphia; financial secretary, Herman Schnaebele, of Philadelphia.

Plans for the national convention to be held in Chicago October 25 were also discussed.

RELIGION SENDS SLAYER BACK TO PRISON

Free 17 Years, Civic Leader Joins Church; Surrenders On Advice of Ministers

MARYDEL, Del., June 22.—(AP.)—A conscience-stricken man who for 17 years had been a fugitive from justice and had become a civic leader and ardent church worker, is serving a term for murder in Florida today.

Last week he gave himself up to officials of that state after conferring here with three ministers.

Benjamin Franklin, fugitive for 17 years, would probably be free today if he hadn't dropped into a church revival last August. He joined the church.

RECALLS SLAYING

After that he lived over many times the day when, as the leading druggist of Blountsville, Fla., and as president of the Blountsville City Council, he went out with the sheriff in catching a suspected negro attacker. He cornered the Negro and killed him.

His trial ended with a conviction and prison sentence. He appealed the case. While it was pending he escaped. He wandered over the nation until seven years ago, when he came to Marydel.

TELLS MINISTERS

A month ago he told his story to three ministers of Marydel. They advised him to go back to prison and wrote Gov. Buck, who in turn notified Gov. Carlton, of Florida.

Marydel learned yesterday that Franklin's "vacation trip" was to prison.

They are launching a move for a pardon so he can come back and take charge of his filling station and enjoy the $15,000 he saved.

Murder Spurs Probe Of Movie Racket

Thomas Maloy, business agent of the union, was one of five sought for questioning in the murder Saturday night of Jacob Kaufman, a member who opposed Maloy's control. Kaufman was shot to death by a young man while waiting in a West Side garage until a radio was installed in his automobile.

CARGO HEARING SET FOR JULY

A freight rate battle of interest to Pittsburgh district coal shippers will be fought in hearings before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington beginning July 20. The date was fixed Saturday, when the commission suspended a new ex-river rate of $1.10 a ton on coal filed May 22 by the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad.

The suspended rate applied to shipments from points on the Ohio River between Steubenville and Wheeling to Cleveland and Lorain, O. The suspension was ordered after the Pennsylvania Railroad, the New York Central and the Baltimore and Ohio had filed protests. Local traffic men say the proposed new rate does not apply to lake cargo shipments.

The new rate applies only to coal shipments for local delivery at Cleveland and Lorain, and not apply to shipments to Toledo and Huron, two of the principal lake cargo shipping points.

RUM RUNNING BOOM DUE

TORONTO, Ontario, June 22.—(AP.)—A Windsor (Ontario) dispatch to the Toronto Daily Star says:

"Liquor exporting on the grand scale is to be resumed to the United States early next week, liquor runners believe."

The dispatch says the liquor runners claim to have found a loophole in the law prohibiting export to prohibition countries and today every rum runner on the border water front is preparing his boats for high speed work again, after a year of idleness since the Liquor Export Act became law on June 1, 1930.

The plan, according to the dispatch, is based on legal opinions holding there is no means of preventing breweries and distilleries from selling their products for export by small boats, to non-prohibition countries, such as the French island of Miquelon, and issuing liquor export certificates for the goods.

Women Plan Peace Appeal to Hoover

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—A "peace caravan" headed for Washington today bearing a petition to President Hoover urging that the United States advocate universal and total disarmament at the world disarmament conference next February in Geneva.

The caravan is composed of eight women, headed by Mrs. Hannah C. Hull, Swarthmore, Pa., national chairman of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which closed its convention here today.

Chapel Dedicated By Congregation

The new chapel of the Church Hill Road Cemetery, Wilkins Township, was dedicated yesterday by the Ohav Zedeck congregation of East Pittsburgh. More than 500 persons attended. Attorney Louis Kaplan was the principal speaker.

Play Scorned by Critics, Actress Takes Poison

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Dorothy Deer Horn, 22-year-old star and director of the play "Thais," which had its Broadway premiere Thursday, was taken to a hospital yesterday in a critical condition.

Her roommate, Miss Schiffer, said the actress had taken poison Saturday in a fit of despondency over the unfavorable reception accorded the show by critics.

The actress told a physician who treated her that she had taken a sedative to ease a headache, but later, Miss Schiffer said, admitted she had taken it with suicidal intent.

Miss Horn has been identified with repertoire companies for many years. She was born in Princeton, N. J., the daughter of Leona Deer Horn Matoha Weaver, a concert singer. She is a great-granddaughter of Chief Jim Weaver, said by Miss Schiffer to have been a chief of the Nikatwan Indian tribe. She also claimed to be descended from Chief Powhattan.

WALES LIKES COFFEE

Drinks 14 Cups on Journey to Plantation in Brazil

By The United Press

CORONEL PROCOPIO, Parana, Brazil—Brazilian coffee made a hit with the Prince of Wales on his recent trip into the Brazilian interior.

He drank 14 small cups of coffee on the journey between Sao Paulo and Cambara, where he visited the giant coffee plantation of Colonel Antonio Barbosa.

From a Pittsburgh Newspaper, May 28, 1931

WHY did the Prince of Wales drink 14 cups of coffee—evidently because it was MIGHTY GOOD!

Colonel Antonio Barbosa and His Five Sons

Who Entertained the Prince of Wales

On May 28th, 1931, the above news item appeared in a Pittsburgh newspaper. The name of Colonel Antonio Barbosa was instantly familiar to us, because we knew him to be the owner of the Companhia Agricola Barbosa Fazendas, the very finest coffee plantations in all Brazil—plantations that produce coffee fit for a King; coffee enjoyed by a Prince of the Royal Blood; coffee that delights the People of Pittsburgh—the users of My-Te-Good Coffee.

Through the co-operation of our coffee buyer in Brazil we are pleased to publish the above photograph of Colonel Antonio Barbosa and his five sons. Our coffee buyer regularly visits these great coffee plantations and has been friendly with Colonel Barbosa for 28 years. These many years he has frequently enjoyed the gracious hospitality of the Colonel, a gentleman of the old school, a distinguished descendant of a famous old Portuguese family. His coffee plantations, or fazendas, are recognized as "The Model Fazendas of Brazil."

Coffee Goodness Starts With The Tree!

Our coffee buyer writes of Colonel Barbosa's properties and of the coffee he buys for us: "The trees are all young and vigorous, planted in virgin soil—rich and fertile—and the quality of the crop is outstanding."

Small wonder that the Prince of Wales liked this coffee—and drank 14 cups. He KNOWS when coffee is mighty good!

P. O. BUILDING STRIKE ENDS

Miss M. Emmilinne Pitt, conciliator for the United States Department of Labor, announced today the settlement of strikes of several building trades unions engaged on the new postoffice at Grant street and Seventh avenue. Work was resumed today.

An agreement was signed Saturday, Miss Pitt declared, by officials of the unions and the Booth and Flinn Company, general contractor. The agreement states that all work will be done by union workmen. As a representative of the Labor Department Miss Pitt is a party to the agreement.

The strikes ended after six weeks of negotiations arranged by Miss Pitt. These included three conferences in Washington. Among those attending were Secretary of Labor William N. Doak, Director H. L. Kerwin and Miss Pitt, of the department; Col. James Whetmore, supervising architect of the Treasury Department, officials of the Booth and Flinn Company, and representatives of the various trade unions.

The strike began nearly two months ago with a dispute between the Pile Drivers' and Dock Builders' Union and the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union over which should do the pile driving in the foundation.

Clara Phillips May Go Free Next Year

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., June 22.—(AP.)—Clara Phillips, Los Angeles "hammer murderess," may be released from San Quentin Prison in a little more than a year.

The State Parole Board yesterday fixed her term at 30 years and denied a parole she requested. Mrs. Phillips will be eligible, with credits for good behavior, for parole by July 1932.

Hurt Alighting From Train, Dies

2 SLAIN IN N. Y. GANG WAR

NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS.)—Gang warfare raged anew here today as the result of two killings yesterday less than 12 hours after "Dutch" Schultz, Bronx "beer baron," had been released from the Tombs on $75,000 bail.

Jack Soricelli, Schultz lieutenant, was shot in the doorway of his home in the Bronx. Yesterday's other victim was Charles Liebman, whose body was found on the roadside near Cold Spring, N. Y. He was said to have been an ally of the notorious Purple gang of Detroit, whose members invaded New York two weeks ago.

DETROIT, June 22.—(AP.)—The body of Ben Bronston, 26, known to police as a rum runner and a former Purple gangster, was found in the middle of a boulevard yesterday.

Man Feared Drowned In N. Y. Boat Crash

NEW YORK, June 22.—(INS.)—William Duffy, 24, one of 10 persons aboard the motorboat Marvin when it struck a submerged log in the Hudson River and sank last night, was believed today to have been drowned as marine police vainly searched for his body.

Four other men and five women aboard the craft seized life preservers before the boat sank and managed to keep afloat until rescued by onlookers, hundreds of whom witnessed the accident.

French Fliers Aim At Non-Fuel Record

ISTRES, France, June 22.—(AP.)—The French fliers Lucien Boussoutrot and Emil Rossi took off at 6:15 a. m. today in an effort to regain the non-fueling duration flying record now held by the Americans, Walter Lees and Frederick Brossy.

OHIO BLACKMAIL TRIAL RESUMES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 22.—(INS.)—Cross-examination of Harry J. Engle, ousted Youngstown traction commissioner, was to be resumed today in the blackmail trial of Ray L. Thomas.

Defense attorneys for Thomas intimated their questioning of Engle, the state's star witness in the first of the trials resulting from a sensational, multi-sided political scandal in Mahoning County, would be soon completed.

At least two Mahoning County common pleas judges are expected to follow Engle to the witness stand for the state. It was expected they will be Judges David Jenkins and H. Lyons, both named in disbarment proceedings filed by Thomas before he was indicted.

Following the jurists to the stand probably will be John T. Harrington, former president of the Penn-Ohio Power and Light Company.

Motorcyclist Killed Enroute to Contest

Pilot Claims New Plane More Stable

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—G. Wilbur Cornelius, of Burbank, Cal., transport pilot, said today he had flown a newly designed monoplane from here to San Francisco and back without having to touch the ship's balancing controls, in a test run, part of which was through fog.

He said he negotiated the fog without aid of any blind flying instruments, keeping the ship on its course with the help of a compass.

Lightning Kills 3 On Farm in W. Va.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 22.—(AP.)—Three persons were killed and one injured by lightning at Ona, near here. The dead were Charles Porter, 50; his son, Earl, 22, and Lyle Casey, 15. Shocks and burns were suffered by Gladys Porter, 9.

The four were members of a group of seven in the yard of the Porter farm home when the elder Porter was struck. Earl Porter and the Casey boy, near him, also were killed. The other three were unhurt.

POLICE RADIO TRAPS THREE

trolmen Henry Tesh and James J. O'Connor noticed a machine of the description at Hazelwood avenue and Chatsworth street. As the officers approached, two men fled. They were captured two blocks away. After questioning they implicated their companion, police reported.

CLERK THREATENED

Grimes was working in the balcony office when two robbers entered. They threatened Theodore Barna, 1303 Bluff street, a soda clerk, and forced him to hand over about $30 from the cash register. They then forced Barna to lead them upstairs to the office, where they trained their revolvers on Grimes. He told them he was unable to open the safe and was compelled to help one of the men convey it to the machine, where the third member of the gang was waiting.

The two suspects first arrested said they were Andrew Superior, 19, of 717 Forward avenue, and John Krail, 18, of 827 Four Mile Run road. After questioning the pair, police went to the home of Samuel Cohen, 21, of 4352 Chatsworth street, and arrested him. Following a hearing in Oakland Police Court at which the three were held for further investigation, a fourth suspect, Richard Hirschman, 19, of 1621 Westfield avenue, was arrested by city detectives in his home. Police say he was implicated by the three others, who, they declare, admitted the robbery.

LOOT FOUND IN HOME

According to Lieut. Pischke, the broken safe, three revolvers, two flashlights and $817 in cash were found in Cohen's home. The safe was identified, police say, as the one stolen from the drug store.

This morning's holdup was the second in the store within three months. Three men were arrested for the first robbery and were sent to the penitentiary for several downtown holdups.

Brentwood Coach Co. Sues Clairton Line

HARRISBURG, June 22.—(AP.)—The Brentwood Motor Coach Company today filed with the Public Service Commission a complaint against Fred Stuhlmiller, Clairton, alleging the latter was violating his certificate by failure to observe restrictions imposed by the commission and by irregular operation over his route from Pittsburgh to Clairton.

Topping, Once W. Va. Fire Marshal, Dead

FOUNDER'S DAY AT GUSKY HOME

More than 150 former graduates of the J. M. Gusky Hebrew Orphanage and Home attended the fortieth annual founder's day exercises yesterday afternoon in the Bertha Rauh Cohen annex of the home, 3605 Perrysville avenue. Seventy of the 87 children in the orphanage participated.

Past and present officers of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies spoke. These included Irvin Lehman, past president; Alfred Oppenheimer, president, and Dr. Ludwig Bernstein, executive secretary. A. L. Solomon, president of the home, and Arnold Deutelbaum, superintendent, also spoke.

KILLING BLAMED ON GIN PARTY

NEWPORT, R. I., June 22.—(Universal.)—Elliott R. Hathaway, 28-year-old Fall River play boy, on trial for the murder of Verna E. Russell, was ready today to take the witness stand and say that the pretty nurse died by accident in the rear seat of his car during a "gin" party.

He will follow the outline of the defense described in Saturday's session, when his attorney indicated that the dead girl, not Hathaway, suggested the party in the lonely lane where her body was found March 24.

State medical witnesses have already testified the 20-year-old nurse was strangled by a hand. It is indicated that the play boy will be subjected to a cross-examination of a viciousness never before matched in this state.

WALES BIRTHDAY TOMORROW

LONDON, June 22.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales will be 37 years old tomorrow—and still a bachelor.

Britain seems to have accepted the situation as his final decision, for there isn't even the usual crop of rumors buzzing about his blond head.

For one thing, much of the affection which set old ladies to gossiping over their teacups and maidens a-sighing, has been transferred from the Prince to little Princess Elizabeth.

For another, Wales has changed in this last year from something of a playboy Prince whose main job was to inherit the British throne, to a business Prince who means to help restore Britain's lost trade.

There are no special plans for his birthday.

TEACHER GIVES LIFE FOR CHILD

LENOIR, N. C., June 22.—(AP.)—Lillian Arhelgar, 21-year-old Charlotte school teacher, died last night of injuries suffered Saturday in a fall over a 60-foot cliff in attempting to save a small girl from falling.

The young teacher landed on jagged rocks and never regained consciousness.

She saved the child's life with a push as both went over the cliff. The shove sent the child clear of the rocks to fall in a soft sand pit and she was not injured.

The little girl, whose name was withheld, slipped at the brink of the cliff. Miss Arhelgar leaped after her, but was unable to pull her back and went over the cliff herself.

A New Low Price on Misses'

Sports Silk Jacket Frocks

$12.75

A great, fresh group for tomorrow, shows what smart and altogether attractive costumes can now be had as a result of lowered market costs.

These costumes are of rough-surfaced chuddah and the no-less sportsy senoussi, fundamentally white for the most part, and made up in ways that are uncommon. They have regulation jackets in white to match the frocks, or in dark, bright or light colors, and the very tricky, new lumberjacks with wide, tri-colored belts.

Glazed Chintz Ensembles

To Make Bedrooms Attractive—Inexpensively!

Curtains, $4.75 Pair — Bedspreads, $4.75
Vanity Skirts, $2.75 — By-the-Yard, 75c

There's nothing quite so charming as this semi-glazed material with its lovely colorings and its easy-to-keep clean finish. Its glazed surface offers no inducement for dust and grime to linger . . . and when it does soil, it is easily cleaned with a damp cloth. And at these new low prices, it is doubly attractive!

Choose the set illustrated with quaint ruffled bandings, or one with two-tone piping along scalloped edges. Orchid, green, and tan grounds with various decorative floral colors are available in each style. Curtains are 2¼ and 2½ yards long. Bedspreads are in both single and double sizes.

A New Joy for Washdays in the

A. M. C. Washer

$69.75

When the A. M. C. Washer was brought to light it already had a past—in which it had proved by every possible test that it was the best washing machine value on the market.

More than 1000 Pittsburghers agree with the experts who tested the A. M. C., and every washday their confidence is fully rewarded.

The A. M. C. Washer has a large-size vitreous, porcelain enamel tub with no crevices to catch or tear clothes. The mechanism is simplified and danger-proof. The large balloon type wringers are reversible, for added safety and convenience.

Everything that has gone into an A. M. C. Washer is the best quality obtainable.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

READY TO SERVE as shark bait in the interests of science, a well-known ichthyologist recently sailed from the shores of our glorious country. Upon arriving at his destination—the Bahama Islands—he plans to swim in the most dangerous waters about that spot, and to prove that only a great white shark will attack a human being. Black sharks, he insists, are harmless.

This ichthyologist did not carry deadly weapons such as rifles, machine guns or sling-shots. The most dangerous weapon he took with him was a movie camera. . . .

First of all, let's give this lad a name. How about Doakes? It's just as good a tag as any. And in cases of this kind we just can't be too particular. So Doakes it shall be.

Suddenly, through the water, Doakes sees a shark coming toward him. It is a huge black fellow, with tremendous fins and whatever else it is that a shark has. Doakes calmly raises his camera and commences to take a picture.

Shark—What's the big idea?

Doakes—Be perfectly quiet, please. Hold that expression for a moment. That's right. Now turn around, please. That's right.

Shark—Hey, wait a minute. What's the big idea of all this?

Doakes—Everything's all right. I'm an ichthyologist. I'm here to prove that a black shark like you wouldn't bite anybody. You wouldn't, would you?

Shark—O, wouldn't I? It's a lucky thing for you I just had my dinner. What's your name?

Doakes—Doakes.

Shark—Doakes, eh? The last man I gobbled up was named Smith. Any relation of yours?

Doakes—I don't think so. I once had an aunt who—

Shark—I know how you feel about it. I once had a brother that had water on the knee. And—

Doakes—But you haven't answered my question. Would you bite me?

Doakes—New York.

Doakes—Why not?

Doakes—You don't say! What does your sister do?

Doakes—And your brother?

Doakes—That's very interesting. I know a fellow who goes to Madison Square Garden once in a while.

Doakes—Rudy Vallee.

The shark utters an angry sound, darts closer and grabs Doakes' left leg. Doakes sees that he has made a terrible mistake.

Doakes—Ouch! Hey, let go. I don't know Vallee at all. I know him only by reputation. I don't like him at all.

Shark—(looking distrustfully at Doakes) Are you sure you don't like him?

Doakes—I was never so sure of anything in all my life. I hate him.

Shark—Well, you'd better be careful what you say to me in the future. I'm a pretty tough guy. What's that thing you're carrying with you?

Shark—Motion pictures, eh? Did you ever photograph Clara Bow or Gloria Swanson?

Doakes—Nope. I'd rather photograph fish.

Shark—You'd rather photograph fish! I think I'll take a bite out of you and put you out of your misery.

Doakes—You mustn't do that. My theory is that a black shark like you will not bite a man. If you bite me, what sense will there be in the pictures?

Shark—I never thought of that. You're a pretty clever fellow.

Shark—Will my picture go into the Roxy Theater?

Doakes—Sure. And you can have a prologue, too.

Shark—I don't want any prologue. I hate prologues. You must promise me there will be no prologue. Please promise me.

Doakes—All right—no prologue. Now, are you ready?

Doakes continues to shoot. This goes on for an hour. Suddenly the shark grins. He darts at Doakes and grabs him around the arm.

Doakes—Hey! What's the idea?

Shark—I'm hungry now. And I'm going to eat you.

Shark—Why not?

BAKERY PICKET BAN ISSUED

Common Pleas Judge Samuel H. Gardner today granted a temporary injunction restraining members of the Bakers' and Confectioners' International Union of America, Locals No. 44 and No. 242, from picketing the bake shops of Bennie and Arthur Abelson, in Logan street and Frazier street, Oakland.

The Abelsons in their petition for the injunction alleged members of the union, who have been on a strike for the past two weeks, have threatened them and some of their workers. Final hearing on the injunction will be held June 29.

BREAK HALTS WATER SERVICE

Interruptions in the service of the East McKeesport Water Company starting Saturday night have been due to a leak in the main on Washington road, it was declared at the offices of the company this morning.

Workers are replacing the broken section of pipe and normal service was to be restored by noon today.

Fire Sweeping Docks At West Saint John

Constance Bennett Under Knife, Better

OBITUARY

Myles Funeral.

Funeral services were to be held today for David Myles, 80, a resident of Mt. Washington for more than 50 years, who died Friday. The services will be held in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Norman R. Tite, 71 Harwood street. Burial will be in Mt. Lebanon Cemetery. Mr. Myles was one of the last two members of the old Mozart Club, at one time a celebrated musical organization of Pittsburgh. He was born in England and came to Pittsburgh when a boy. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Sarah Lane Myles; two sons, Charles and David Myles, and five daughters, Mrs. Tite, Mrs. James Pritchard, of Overbrook; Mrs. Edward Hadley and Mrs. Andrew Saccani, of Cleveland and Mrs. T. Z. Hadley, of Byesville, O.

Mrs. Robert McCarthy.

Funeral services for Mrs. Nora McCarthy, wife of Robert McCarthy will be held at her home, 400 Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks, Wednesday morning. Mrs. McCarthey, who died Saturday, was born in Clarion County, and had lived in McKees Rocks for 30 years. She leaves her husband, two sons, Robert J. and Louis; a daughter, Mrs. Esther Roll, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Lente, McKees Rocks, and Mrs. Delia Coword, Freedom. She was a member of St. Francis de Sales Roman Catholic Church and Ladies of the Maccabees, No. 120, of McKees Rocks.

Abel Funeral.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning for Mrs. Mary Ann Abel, who died Saturday afternoon in her home, 505 Lincoln avenue. The services will be held in Sacred Heart Catholic Church. Burial will be in Mt. Carmel Cemetery. Mrs. Abel leaves four sons, Joseph, George, John and Fred Abel; three daughters, Mrs. Katherine Best, Mrs. Walter Hockberg and Miss Mary Abel, all of Pittsburgh, and a sister, Miss Katherine Davidson, of Mars.

FIRE ROUTS 50 AT WM. PENN

More than 50 guests at the William Penn Hotel were routed from their rooms on the upper floors at daybreak today when smoke from a fire in the flues from the cafeteria in the basement filled the rooms and corridors.

Many other guests, aroused by the noise of firemen, dressed and went to floors below.

While the firemen were subduing the blaze, girls from the Follies leaned from their windows on the eleventh floor and shouted jokingly to the firefighters in the street below.

Deputy Fire Chief Louis J. Connelley estimated damage at $100, said flames from the flues were drawn through air ducts on the nineteenth and twentieth floors.

POISON IN LUNCH KILLS 2 GIRLS

LEBANON, Ind., June 22.—(INS.)—Chicken sandwiches, poisoned by inserting capsules, today had taken two lives and made three persons seriously ill at a family reunion.

The dead were Alice Jean Simmons, 10, and Virginia Simmons, 14, sisters. A cousin, an uncle and the father of the girls were in critical condition.

As one of the guests started eating his sandwich a capsule dropped out and was taken immediately to a doctor who said it was probably quinine. Before his report was received, the reunion broke up in a panic when five were seized with convulsions. Investigation by the coroner disclosed that 13 of 18 sandwiches prepared by the Simmons girls' mother had been poisoned.

LETTERS TO AID STARR JURY

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Three letters from the late Starr Faithful to Dr. G. Jameson Carr, surgeon of the Cunard liner Franconia, com anded attention today from Nassau County officials investigating the beauty's mysterious death.

As a voluntary witness with what h. considers vital information, Dr. Carr has come from England with the letters. He said he would not reveal the letters before submitting them to the authorities. One excerpt, as published, has had the girl predicting her death.

Miss Faithfull visited the Franconia May 29 and was taken off intoxicated after the liner left her pier. Her body was washed ashore at Long Beach, Long Island, on June 7. She was reported missing June 5.

Dr. Carr is expected to be a witness when the grand jury resumes investigation of the mystery at Mineola tomorrow. County authorities arranged a conference with him on his arrival from Boston.

The doctor said he first met the girl in 1927.

Trade Board to Scan New Voting Machines

One of the new voting machines purchased by the county will be demonstrated tonight at the West View Board of Trade meeting in the West View Junior High School auditorium. Members of the board also will be addressed by Judge D. Paulson Foster.

SPAIN ELECTION CLIMAX NEAR

MADRID, June 22. — (AP.) — While more than 9,000 certified themselves as deputy candidates by going before election boards throughout Spain, the country entered the final week of an intensive political campaign to elect 470 members of a constituent assembly next Sunday.

President Niceto Alcala Zamora made a campaign speech at Jaen.

Despite the announcement of exteremist Lefts and extreme Rights, that they would abstain from participating in the election, the campaign is arousing great interest. Many observers are predicting a victory for the Republican-Socialist coalition representing the present administration.

It has not been determined whether the extremist Lefts would attempt to carry out a reported scheme to create strikes to embarrass the government, but efforts have been made to check any such move.

SECOND OF RICH BROTHERS DIES

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 22.—(AP.)—Henry L. Aldrich, cotton manufacturer and philanthropist, died here yesterday less than a week after the death of his brother, Charles T. Aldrich, with whom he had lived and been associated in business for 61 years. Henry was 77 years old and Charles was 74.

In 1925, the brothers gave $1,000,000 to be shared equally by Brown University and the Rhode Island Hospital. Previously they had contributed $100,000 to Brown in the campaign for an athletic field which later was named Aldrich Field.

They never married but had for 61 years shared the house their father, the late Henry F. Aldrich, built here in 1868.

3 FACE LIQUOR CHARGES HERE

Two Pittsburgh men and a woman, arrested by federal prohibition agents in a series of Saturday night raids, in which 17 others were arrested in Cambria, Erie and Johnstown counties, were to be given hearings today on charges of violating the prohibition law. They are Bennie Fusaro, 187 Ledgedale street, Westwood; Catherine Wood, 935 Cherokee street, and Robert Berry, 6324 Station street.

The agents reported seizing a 250-gallon still at the Ledgedale street address, and 450 gallons of beer mash at the Cherokee street address.

East Prussia Speeds Time in Airline

KOENIGSBERG, East Prussia, (AP.)—Shorter flying time between this city and Moscow has been announced by the German-Russian Aviation Company operating the line. Passengers leaving Berlin at 11 p. m. will land in Moscow at 1:20 p. m. the next day.

Law for Gulf Oil Concession Signed

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 22.—(AP.)—President Olaya Herrera has signed the law which gives the Gulf Oil Company exploitation rights for 50 years to the Barco concession. His act settled prolonged litigation over the rich oil district in Northern Colombia.

Singers Protest Title of 'Crooner'

The reason they give is that it is being "too generously applied to any one who vocalizes, or attempts to, in any form departing from the conventional."

Sparks Ignite Toy, Baby Dies of Burns

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(AP.)—Sparks blown by the wind from a cigaret ignited the celluloid rattle of Harold Yinger, Jr., 6 months old, causing burns from which the child died.

THAT CERTAIN SOMETHING IN EXQUISITE EVENING FROCKS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 22.—Charm and chic are the two most important attributes of an evening frock, or, at least, they should be. Material, trimming, rich ornamentation mean nothing unless the model has that certain something that we can all so readily recognize, and are yet unable to translate into words. And very often it is the apparently simple model that manages to catch within its folds that something that sets it apart from any other dress and so makes it an object of mixed admiration and envy. The evening clothes shown this season have never been more charming or appealing and it should not be difficult for any of us to discover the evening frock of our dreams—not on some one else, but waiting for us in some smart house or store.

* * *

SOME OF THE SEASON'S most successful evening models are of white or off-white satin. The very lovely ensemble shown here, which is by Maggy Rouff, uses for the frock ivory satin in a lustrous weave. The novel little coat is of dark brown velvet. A braided rope of velvet runs vertically down the shirred sleeve and the frog fastening the coat is braided in the same fashion.

* * *

AT THE RIGHT is seen the same dress from the back. The bodice, cowl-shaped in front, is flat in back. The braided note evidently is the linking factor of the ensemble, for it is present on the frock, in back where it borders the decolletage. Triple godets start from the base of the decolletage and flare at either side of the back. This is quite obviously one of those models whose charm and delicate chic can scarcely be conveyed in description or drawing. It will be noted that the combination of brown with white is fast extending into the realm of evening fashions.

BLEDSOE TRIAL RESUMES

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 22.—Coroner S. A. Baltz was the first witness for the state today in the trial of R. C. Bledsoe, former county detective, charged with the murder of Elmer Younkin, whose body was found in Bledsoe's car after it had been struck by a train two years ago. Embalmer John G. Fenton also testified.

Bledsoe collected one-half of the $5,000 insurance Younkin had taken out on his life a few days before his death. Bledsoe was made the sole beneficiary of the policy but later agreed to share it with Younkin's family.

The commonwealth is reported to have one or two eye witnesses.

Bledsoe was brought to the Fayette County workhouse, where he had been sentenced for two and a half years. He was caught in the cleanup in the county following the murder of Donohoe, former deputy constable and state trooper. He entered a plea of guilty to being interested in the Slaughterhouse still near Connellsville, and was given a term in connection with a heavy fine.

3 HIGH CLASSES TO GRADUATE

Three high schools will hold commencement exercises this week, the first being Fifth Avenue High School, tonight, in Carnegie Music Hall, when 83 students will receive diplomas. The Rev. William Millward, a member of the faculty, will pronounce the invocation and Sarah Frishman, first honor pupil, will speak.

Tomorrow night Westinghouse and South High schools will hold their commencements in the school auditoriums. Westinghouse will graduate a class of 167. The diplomas will be presented by Frank M. Leavitt, associate superintendent of schools, and honor students will speak. Seventy-two students will be graduated from South High School. The Rev. D. Halenda will offer the invocation and Dr. S. E. Weber, associate superintendent of schools, will present the diplomas. June Rose Phipps, high honor student, will speak.

4 Days Unaware Of Broken Neck, Man Dies

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 22.—(AP.)—Joseph Edens, 54, Tuppers Creek farmer, walked about his home four days unaware he was suffering from a broken neck and fractured skull. He was injured when he fell from a cherry tree in his orchard last Monday. He collapsed Saturday and was taken to a hospital, where he died within a few hours.

Man Idle 3 Months Bequeathed $63,000

AURORA, Ill., June 22.—(INS.)—Out of work for more than three months and recently married, Delbert Dunham, a shop worker today characterized as "a gift from heaven," the unexpected bequest of $63,000 from the late Dr. E. L. Prescott, of New York, with whom he lived when a boy.

IRENE'S VICTIM ROBBED AGAIN

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 22.—(AP.)—J. B. (Jack) Cotts, filling station proprietor, whose apparently mistaken identification sent Frank Howell to the state prison as a holdup man, fell victim to bandits again yesterday.

Two young men entered Cotts' station at Fairview, three miles from here, he reported to police, hit him over the head with a pistol butt and took $25 from the cash drawer. Cotts said he believed he hit one of the men when he fired after them as they fled in an automobile.

In the previous holdup of the filling station, Howell served time in prison after he was convicted largely on Cotts' evidence that he was the bandit. Howell was freed by executive pardon when Mrs. Irene Shrader and W. Glenn Dague, since electrocuted for the murder of a Pennsylvania highway patrolman, confessed they held up Cotts' place.

BAY SEARCHED FOR BROKER

BALTIMORE, June 22.—(AP.)—Search continued in Upper Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries for Henry Carroll, 56, member of a Baltimore banking and brokerage firm, missing since last Friday. Meanwhile his family said they had not given up hope of his safe return.

John Merryman, a brother-in-law who requested the assistance of the police in locating the missing broker, said no information had been received. Throughout Saturday and Sunday harbor craft searched the bay for the boat on which Carroll had left for a cruise. No trace of the vessel was found.

The Maritime Exchange said it had no information regarding the missing craft, described as about 25 feet long with a raised deck. The authorities at the United States Naval Academy and coast guard officials said they had not been asked to aid in the hunt.

BITTEN BY DOG, 3 RECOVERING

Three persons were recovering at their homes today from dog bites. They were treated at the South Side Hospital, where it was said their conditions were not serious.

One of them, Stephen Huber, 44, of 2410 Jane street, was bitten while attempting to save Joseph Arbasak, 6, of 2506 Jane street, who was bitten in the shoulder last night.

A few minutes before attacking the boy, the dog had bitten Minnie Sobzak, 60, of 2408 Jane street, on the right arm. Walter Kahler, of 2410 Jane street, owner of the dog, turned it over to the Animal Rescue League for observation.

MOTHER KILLS 3 CHILDREN

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—Mrs. Leon Bearce, 30, who said she was afraid she would be separated from her three children because her husband had told her she was "crazy," cut the throats of all three yesterday. Two were found dead and the third died several hours later.

The tragedy occurred at the tourist camp her husband operates.

The bodies of George and Joyce, 10-month-old twins, were found lying in a wood road near the camp after Dena, 4, came running, wounded, to her father.

The mother was found near the bodies of the twins. Arresting officers said she admitted killing them, and said she would have killed herself "if the knife had been sharper." She was held in jail here.

Conneaut Marsh Fill Held Possible

SHARON, Pa., June 22.—That the Conneaut marsh, over which a section of the Perry Highway is being erected, can be filled, is the belief of three engineers named by Samuel Lewis, state highway secretary, to inspect the swamp. The engineers, after spending nearly a day at the swamp, where 270,000 yards of dirt have already been dumped, also state the old route of the highway would have offered the same problem.

Hawes at Filipino Independence Meet

MANILA, June 22.—(AP.)—Senator Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri, co-author of the Hawes-Cutting Philippine independence bill, addressed a private and secretive round table conference of Filipinos last night. The Hawes bill was discussed as were plans for Philippine independence propaganda.

ST. MARYS, W. Va., June 22.—Capt. J. C. McLaughlin, of this city, and Mrs. Ida M. Snodgrass of Marietta, O., have announced their marriage.

American Lawyer Dies in England

DOVER, England, June 22.—(AP.)—W. F. Crist, an attorney of San Francisco, Cal., collapsed on the quay here last night and died shortly after leaving a trans-channel steamer from Ostend. He was accompanied by Mrs. Crist.

Ill Woman Slain, Brother Accused

BRENHAM, Tex., June 22.—(INS.)—Mrs. May Dodd, 51-year-old bed-ridden invalid, was shot to death at her home at Sempronious, near here, and her brother, W. R. Bradford, was being held in jail without bond on a murder charge.

Bradford was arrested near Chapel Hill shortly after the slaying. He was wounded, and members of his family told police he had tried to shoot himself to death after his sister had been killed.

Greensburg Crash Fatal to Autoist

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 22.—(AP.)—Carl Seehoffer, 23, of Hunkers, this county, was killed here last night when his automobile and a street car collided.

In an accident involving two automobiles and a telephone pole on the William Penn highway near the New Alexandria airport, Mrs. Jeannette Pender, Blairsville, her father-in-law Fred Pender, 68, and Mr. and Mrs. Nick Yackman, were seriously hurt. Three children of the Penders and three of the Yackmans escaped injury.

Blind Persons Dog Guides to Ride Free On Cars

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(AP.)—Blind persons whose "seeing eye" dogs lead them about the streets, hereafter may ride on street cars of the municipal railway free of charge, the railway management has announced.

The dogs, trained to guide their masters through traffic, will wear white tags on their collars engraved "seeing eye."

Epworth Meeting Places Selected

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 22.—(AP.)—The fall convention of the Epworth League, McKeesport district, of the Methodist Episcopal church, will be held at Bellevernon and the 1931 spring session in Connellsville. The 1931 spring convention ended at South Greensburg yesterday.

Walter E. Hamilton, of Versailles, was named president. Other officers named included James Miller, Jr., Bellevernon, third vice president, and the Rev. L. H. Hoover, Somerset, member of the advisory board.

TELL IT TO SALLY

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By SALLY MARTIN

Has a Father the Right to Pick Son's Career?

Has dad a right to pick sonny's career—

And insist that he follow it. Whether the boy wants to or not?

Gerry's Dad thinks he has—but Gerry doesn't agree. Maybe the row will sound familiar. Listen—

"Dear Sally:

"Gosh! I'm in a mess, and you're the only one I know of who'll tell a fellow straight from the shoulder and no bunk. Just what you think. So here goes for another Tragic Story for your ears.

FEELS UNGRATEFUL

"I'm the apple of Dad's eye, so to speak. But the Lord knows I don't deserve it. You see Dad has set his heart on my being a lawyer just as he himself is and as his father and grandfather were before him. Right now I'm home from the "U" for the week-end, and the more I think of that career that's been set before me, the more I hate it and the less I want to go back to school.

"I'm almost 20—old enough to assert myself and live my own life, don't you think? But my conscience bothers me when I think of poor old Dad, so that I curse myself for being an ungrateful fool, and go back and try to kid myself into thinking I'll be a great attorney some day.

"And now Dad objects to Jean, the girl I love. He says she 'interferes with my career.' He doesn't understand that if it weren't for her I'd have gone crazy or run off somewhere long ago. Gee! Lots of times when I've thought I simply could not go on she has helped me with her sweet philosophy of life. I think maybe everything would have been different if I'd had my mother. But she left us when I was a little lad, and I still remember the court scene, and the horror of parting with the gorgeous person who treated me like a pal instead of a son.

CAN'T GO ON

"What'll I do? I am the only one Dad's got. But on the other hand, I have only one life to live. So don't you think I should have a chance to live it in my own way? Or am I being selfish in not wanting to go on as I am and please my father?

"How can I put it across to him that I'd rather be an architect, or even a carpenter—than a lawyer? I know that he dreams of the day when his firm will be "and son." But I feel that I can't go through with it. I just can't.

"Please let me know what you think. I'll be waiting for your opinion.

"GERRY T."

What do I think, son?

I think you're right.

Perhaps, of course, you're not as good a judge of your own nature as you think. Few young people are. Most of us have a secret desire to be toe dancers or snake charmers, or Sumpin Similar, at your age—and live to thank our lucky stars that Dad made us take a grocery job instead. And it may be better to learn to be a lawyer than not to learn anything at all.

AN IMPORTANT RIGHT

And yet, in spite of all that, I do believe that a human who is worth his salt has a right to plan his own career. Maybe he won't plan it right. Maybe he'll make an awful mess of it. Yet the right to make our own mistakes is about the most important right we have.

And so, I think it's up to you to put it up to Dad. Tell him straight—as you've told me. Maybe he won't be as intolerant as you suspect. But if he is—then go to it, kid.

But before you stage the great rebellion, be sure you can pay for it yourself. If you're man enough to pick your own destiny, you must be man enough to stand the costs. And believe me, it costs plenty, Gerry!

That's my answer to Gerry. What's yours, Stranger? Has a father the right to pick the boy's career? Or is that the boy's privilege?

And suppose the two can't agree? Should Dad continue to help? Or should he insist that the youngster handle it on his own?

Easy-Going a Way of Saving Energy and Directing Purpose, Says Fay King

ON THE STAGE AND SCREEN HARD WORK AND EFFORT ARE HIDDEN BY A MANNER OF THE UTMOST EASE THAT DELIGHTS US
THOSE WHO PUT FORTH SO MUCH ENERGY ARE NOT ALWAYS THE MOST ENERGETIC WORKERS
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

Some persons are criticized as being lazy when they are really only easy-going about their business.

They accomplish just as much, and often more, but because they do not make continuous motions of hustle, bustle, and pep they are thought not to put as much heart and interest into their work.

This is a mistaken idea. To be easy-going is one way of conserving energy and directing purpose.

Many bosses are so impressed by this extra activity they fail to notice the extra time taken later on to readjust these forceful efforts.

Those who use such energetic gestures often deceive themselves as well as the boss.

They are seldom as thorough as those who are less active but more accurate.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Veritzen Takes Son and Mary to His Heart

There was that in Philip Veritzen's rich voice as he asked Noel and Mary for forgiveness, which suddenly disarmed my fear of him, and my enmity against him. When a man as strong-willed as the great producer finally surrenders to remorse and atonement, there is something so thorough, so—almost abject about it, that rancor against him gives way to vague compassion. It was a lonely old man with hands outstretched to his son who stood before us with no vestige about him of the arrogant figure which had browbeaten Noel about his mother's ring.

I shall always be glad to remember that it was Mary, high-spirited, impulsive, generous Mary, who, flashing on Noel an ineffable look of loving reproach, grasped his hand and carried him along with her to his father. Somewhere in that rush, in the clasp of that loving, urging hand, Noel's bitterness vanished and when Mr. Veritzen's hands reached out and took his boy's, still clasping Mary's tightly, into his, I knew from the look upon the faces of both men that the barriers were down between them.

They stood thus for a long second or two, hands clasped tightly, eyes meeting steadily. Then Mr. Veritzen withdrew his hands and, putting one arm around Mary and the other across Noel's shoulders, swung them around to me.

"Here, children," he said, "is the blessed mediator who brought me to my senses, and broke down my stubborn cruelty. Thank her, with me, and then listen to her as I shall, for whatever conditions she will make. I leave everything in her hands, and shall be guided absolutely by her dicta. Am I right in thinking you will join me in this?"

"Whatever she says," he said, brokenly, and I saw that the lad was very nearly at the end of his self-control.

"That goes double for me," Mary added with what I guessed was purposeful flippancy, designed to ease the emotional strain from which we were all suffering.

"It's a very simple matter," I said, "and I don't think my advice is needed at all. I am sure you all have thought out your decisions before this. If all opposition is removed to your formal betrothal," I turned to Noel and Mary, "and things are made professionally and financially easy for you, will you agree not to think of marriage for several years—about the number which it would take Mary to graduate from college if she had elected that work? She is very young, remember."

It was Mary who answered, impetuously, more quickly, I saw, than Noel relished, for his eyes shadowed at her reply.

"There's only one thing to keep me from marrying Noel tomorrow," she said, "and that's the fear of hampering his career—or mine—if I have one."

The challenge was unmistakable, and Philip Veritzen promptly took up the gage she had flung at him.

"I never do things by halves, Mary," he told her smiling. "When I yielded to the urgings of my own heart and the words of this charming 'special pleader'—he bowed to me—"and asked your forgiveness and Noel's, I banished the past as I hope you are going to do. I still hope to make of you the most brilliant Veritzen star—I shall take especial pride in training my future daughter, and—I shall try to have your routine a little less rigid. But I see that your aunt agrees with me—marriage would hamper you in this preparation, as it certainly would hamper Noel in his career as a composer."

I think we all three started at this last speech, and Mr. Veritzen smiled.

"I have known for some time, that my son was Boris Raminoff," he said, and there was infinite pride in his voice, "but I have been too stubborn to acknowledge it. However, Noel needs no aid from me save the turning over to him of what is rightfully his, his mother's property. But, my boy—" he smiled at his son, "not as your father, but as a theatrical producer with some reputation for astuteness I am prepared to pay a handsome option for first look at anything you may do."

I caught my breath in admiration. At one sweep he had given back to Noel his independence and his pride. There would be no question again of the youth's humiliating dependence upon his father's will. And yet—I tried to smother the insistent little voice which said over and over again:

"Make him promise all this in writing."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Pneumonia Invited by Neglect and Exposure

All your life you have been told "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." This is particularly the case as regards the so-called minor infections.

Dr. Copeland

It is far wiser to take immediate care of a simple cold or cough than to run any unnecessary risks through neglect. It is unfortunate that most people do not pay enough attention to the common cold. This is true, too, of bronchitis and sore throat.

Usually these infections, even if they are mild in their symptoms, are associated with the "pneumo-cocci," the germs of pneumonia. The are always on watch to pounce on a person run down in health.

Persons suffering from severe cough, or any other respiratory difficulty, should go to bed. If there is temperature, this precaution becomes imperative.

Going to work with a fever is a foolish and dangerous practice. Exposure to cold, over exertion and fatigue under such circumstances are likely to result in serious complications.

Pneumonia is an infection which may be spread from man to man through the secretions of the nose and mouth. On this account, it is important that all cases of pneumonia be carefully isolated. This can be accomplished at home, but it is far easier to care for such cases at a hospital where all modern facilities are available.

This disease is most fatal in the aged and young. On this account extreme precautions must be taken for their protection.

Cold, wetting and chilling must be avoided. Undue exposure, over exposure, lack of sleep and undernourishment help to lay a foundation for this disease. With efforts at avoiding these disturbing factors, the frequency of this disease will be decreased.

Do not forget that neglect of the common ailments, particularly in the very young and old, may really be the chief cause of pneumonia. Indeed, it will be wise to use the ounce of prevention.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. O. B. Q.—Which is better for a convalescent, sleeping until 10 a. m., or an early morning auto drive?

* * *

H. U. U. Q.—What can I do for a red nose? It remains red both winter and summer.

2.—What can I do for blackheads and pimples?

A.—A red nose is usually due to circulatory condition caused by a run-down state of health. Try to build up your general health and you will probably notice an improvement.

2.—Your diet is important. Cut down on sugar, starches and coffee. Avoid constipation.

Household Hints

A high wind will take the starch out of clothes.

When purchasing kitchen utensils, avoid handles which catch dirt easily.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Do you indulge in the torso twist, a turning of the body from one side to the other at the waist line? Pulls in the muscles, makes them strong, knocks fat cells galley-west, stimulates inner organs so that they do their work more actively.

Girls with short, thin hair should try the brush curl. Moisten the hair, brush little strands over the finger, fasten with an invisible hair pin. Begin at the crown of the head. When the hair is dry there will be a marcel pattern and ringlet ends. Tres chic.

Pimples on the shoulders and back are caused by the friction of frocks that are not any too clean. Constant rubbing grinds dirt into the pores, a blackhead forms, and as the walls of the pore breaks, an invading germ walks in and a pimple results. Scrub the skin surface with soapy water and a bath brush, follow with an alcohol rub, powder with a mixture of boric acid and baking soda, one tablespoonful each.

Correct Manners

"How Do You Do" Is Best

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

"A" in my question claims that after being introduced you should use the phrase "How do you do" and says "I'm charmed" or "delighted" or "delighted to meet you" is incorrect.

Please settle this interesting debate.

A. G.

And "A" is correct. The conventional phrase to use to acknowledge an introduction—and always the best phrase to use—is "How do you do." Please don't say "Charmed" or "Delighted" or "Delighted to meet you."

The Bridesmaid's Hat

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for the bridesmaids to wear hats with organdy formals if the wedding is on a Sunday evening?

A. S.

Yes. The hats might be of the evening variety, if you wish. . . . turbans (which are so very popular just now) of net or tulle perhaps.

Thanks for a Compliment

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am taking piano lessons and every time my teacher congratulates me on my work, I am at a loss what to say to her. What shall I say? ROSE.

When anyone says to us something of a pleasant nature we thank them for it, saying something like this: "Thank you so much. I am so glad that you like it," or "How very kind of you to say so. I am so happy that you approve of the way that I play that," or "Thank you. It makes me so happy and proud that you approve."

It's Generally Easier

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a lady is entertaining at home, should she precede her guests when showing them to her room? Should she open the door into her rooms for them? INTERESTED.

Yes, it is generally easier for her and more convenient for her guests if she opens the doors of her rooms, and enters first. She may, if she wishes (and it is better if she does) say something to make the way smooth: "Will you excuse me if I go first to show you the way?"

THREE INJURED IN FIGHT, 6 HELD

Patrick Cloherty, 25, of 342 East Fifth avenue, and Stephen Johnson, 18, of 101 Amity street, were in the Homestead Hospital today with injuries received in a street fight which police reported occurred at Fifth avenue and Amity street, Homestead, early yesterday. Both suffered lacerations, as did Alexander McAlister, 29, of 319 Hays street, who was discharged after receiving treatment at the hospital.

Six others alleged to have participated in the affray were held by police.

Fire Razes Resort, Favored by Presidents

NORFOLK, Va., June 22.—(AP.)—O'Keefe's Casino at Cape Henry, where Lynn Haven oysters and ham have drawn many of the country's notables in years gone by, burned to the ground yesterday.

William Howard Taft, during his presidency, ate at O'Keefe's; Theodore Roosevelt, when he was president, and Nicholas Longworth dined there. Woodrow Wilson visited O'Keefe's while he was governor of New Jersey, and Calvin Coolidge had a taste of Virginia's delicacies there while he was still governor of Massachusetts. Warren G. Harding, as senator from Ohio, also dined there.

TWO MORE DIE OF HEAT HERE

The torrid weather which has been holding Pittsburgh in its grip over the week end, claimed two more lives yesterday.

A celebration in honor of Joseph Rosenberger, of 114 Merchant street, Ambridge, on the occasion of his 21st birthday, ended fatally for the young man late yesterday. A number of friends who had arranged a basket picnic for him along the Ohio River near West Aliquippa, suggested a swim. Rosenberg dove from a barge into an excavation made by a dredging machine and failed to come to the surface. His body was found three hours later.

According to a report to the County Morgue, Mrs. Eva Kaylor, 37, of Renton, died in her home yesterday from heat prostration.

A second drowning was averted at the Wildwood pool when Walter Crawford, a lifeguard, rescued Gustave Payne, 10, of 1114 Roland street, Wilkinsburg.

Word was received here yesterday that William H. Larimer, 50, treasurer of the Armstrong Cork Company, died from heat prostration in Lancaster, Pa., Saturday. He was a former Pittsburgher.

Bandits Raid Turk Village, Hold Court

ISTANBUL, Turkey, June 22.—(AP.)—A band of 67 brigands attacked the village of Kozan, raided stores and set up their own "judicial court," composed of their leaders. Villagers had to appear before this body for settlement of disputes.

The bandit "judge" brought about a reconciliation between a couple asking for divorce and settled a number of debt questions by tearing up promissory notes.

Honduran Rebels Fleeing Country

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 22.—(Universal.)—The Honduran war ministry last night announced that the rebel, Gen. Ferrera, with only a few followers, is fast retreating toward the Guatemalan border.

Following the decisive victory of Saturday, when federal forces killed more than 200 of Ferrera's men and captured a large part of his munitions, the rebel troops have been on retreat.

Mount Troy School To Graduate Thirty

Thirty students will graduate from the Mt. Troy School, Reserve Township, Wednesday evening. They will sing a Russian cantata, "Taras" under direction of Mrs. Bernadette Tutwiler, music supervisor, assisted by Miss Martha Manning, supervising principal. The school orchestra will make its first public appearance.

Caddie, 15, Killed By Golfer's Drive

TOTTENVILLE, N. Y., June 22.—(AP.)—A 15-year-old caddie was killed at the Mayflower Club yesterday as a ball driven from a tee 40 feet away struck him at the base of the skull.

The boy, Harold Marshall, was to have graduated from grammar school next Thursday. Richard Kaiser, Elizabeth, N. J., who drove the ball, was held for questioning.

Showman Succumbs To Heart Attack

DENVER, June 22.—(AP.)—August Gruenbuerg, 46, owner of the Gruenbuerg Amusement Company, and known in the world of showmen as Jack Greenberg, died of a heart attack in his hotel room here yesterday. Mrs. Gruenbuerg left with the body for Detroit, Mich., where funeral services will be held Wednesday.

Paris Doctor Tells How to Reduce Fat Safely

Dr. Walter Thalmann, for years physician in the Hospital St. Louis, Paris, France, and Polyclinic Hospital in Vienna, has created a sensation by placing his public endorsement upon an American reducing discovery called ROBEX.

Dr. Thalmann, when retained to give his expert opinion of the ROBEX formula, said:

"Men and women who desire to take off 10 or 12 pounds a week will NOT find the way through ROBEX. Many women today are 'going crazy' to reduce because they want to retain their youthfulness and keep their husband's love.

"These women try to get thin overnight, and in doing so lose pep, become irritable, pale and drawn-looking.

"I welcome the ROBEX formula because it brings about GRADUAL—and therefore SAFE—reduction. As you lose in weight the ROBEX way, you gain in energy and attractiveness. I place my heartiest approval upon ROBEX."

ROBEX tablets are the easiest thing in the world to take—just four a day—one after meals and at bedtime. Thousands of folks who formerly suffered physical discomfort and mental tortures of obesity, have lost in weight and gained in appearance, simply by taking ROBEX.

Do not let excess fat rob you of love, happiness, health. Tear out this clipping. Start the ROBEX treatment today. Druggists here hand back your money unless you are satisfied with results! Reducing advice free in every package. All Mayflower stores & other good druggists.

QUARRY KILLING AWARD POSTED

LIMA, O., June 22.—(AP.)—Awards for the capture of the slayers of Thelma Woods, 17, of Lima, and her escort, Earl Truesdale, 20, of Elida, whose bodies were found in an abandoned stone quarry here, were to be posted by city and county officials today.

The Lima Eagles Lodge has posted $100 for the apprehension of the slayers, while scores of citizens have indicated their intention of contributing to the award fund.

More than 3,000 persons attended the funeral of Truesdale at Elida. His body was found in the quarry Friday, and that of Miss Woods 10 days ago.

Farmer Ejects Army Saving Baltimore

BALTIMORE, June 22.—(AP.)—The 110th Field Artillery saved Baltimore from a mythical invasion by Pennsylvania troops yesterday, but not until one battery had been hastily evicted from a cherry orchid in which a number of artillerymen were feasting during a lull in the war.

The theater of operations was hastily shifted to an adjoining field, however, and Baltimore was saved. The evicted battery, under the command of Capt. C. Ridgely Howard, was one of six participating in the maneuver.

55 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 16; diphtheria, 3; measles, 3; mumps, 12; chicken pox, 4; whooping cough, 13, and pneumonia, 4.

MALONE CALLS WAGE PARLEY

HARRISBURG, June 22.—Representatives of labor unions and the Department of Property and Supplies will meet here tomorrow to discuss a new clause in the administrative code which specifies that the minimum wage for mechanics and laborers employed on state work be set forth in the contract.

Secretary James F. Malone took up the question of the wages with John A. Phillips, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor who has notified labor leaders in the various trades to attend the session tomorrow morning.

The department within the next few months will begin advertising for construction at state owned institutions. The appropriation is more than $9,000,000 for the biennium. This is the construction program that the Governor suggested to be started early in the spring to relieve unemployment. The appropriation bill was signed less than two weeks ago.

Customers' Calls Delay Wrecking Of Brewery

HOUSTON, Tex., June 22.—(AP.)—Police, destroying 6,000 bottles of beer, mash and stills at a wholesale beer plant raided by them, were delayed by telephone calls.

The calls, the officer said, were from retail dealers who failed to receive their consignments.

Man's Death First At Beach Since '21

HARRISBURG, June 22.—(AP.)—John R. Heim, 24, of this city, died of a heart attack while bathing at the municipal beach here Saturday night. Heim's death was the first at the beach since it was opened in 1921, park officials said.

150 IN POLAND TRIP GROUP

One hundred and fifty Pittsburghers, including many well known men of Polish extraction, were en route to Europe today, having sailed from New York yesterday. They are going to Poznan, Poland, where they will attend the unveiling of the statue of Woodrow Wilson on July 4. Mrs. Wilson and Gen. John J. Pershing are to attend.

Col. T. A. Starzynski, in charge of the Pittsburgh delegation, is scheduled to make a brief address at the ceremony. Col. Starzynski is a close friend of Ignace Jan Paderewski, the former Polish premier, who presented the statue of the war president to Poland.

'ABE AND DAVID' BACK :-: Sisters of Skillet To Broadcast Here :-: GENE, GLENN VISIT

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

"UNCLE ABE and David" return to WCAE at 6:45 tonight as "The Stebbins Boys," leading citizens of Bucksport, Me., and combined owners of Bucksport's leading general store (with post office and hotel included)... Cap'n. Bill is a seafaring gentleman about 65... his brothers, John and Esley, are 55 and 54... Bill and Esley have not spoken to each other for 15 years...

Irene Taylor

Phil Lord, creator of "Uncle Abe and David," and "Seth Parker," writes "The Stebbins Boys" and acts Cap'n. Bill... Arthur Allen, who was "David" in "Uncle Abe and David," plays Esley, and Parker Pennelly becomes John Stebbins.

Harvey Hayes, "The Old Timer," rides the Empire Builder for the last time on KDKA at 10:30... the end of a three-year series... WCAE adds two more new programs, the Fusileers, at 10, and Irene Taylor at 10:45... "Guess Who's in Town" is Miss Taylor's first radio selection... Pittsburgh's own Tom Waring, composer, who was recently signed by the National Broadcasting Company on our recommendation, makes his debut over WTAM at 11 o'clock tonight... Tom has had a busy month in Cleveland haunting museums and doing water colors of Walter Logan, Hal Metzger, W. W. Smith and celebrities about the studios.

* * *

"Sisters of the Skillet" are due at the Stanley Theater the week of July 3... special broadcasts have been scheduled for KDKA on Friday, July 3, and Monday, July 6... Eddie East and Ralph Dumke have authorized us to accept your "household problems" for an early solution when they arrive in town... mail them in...

Jay Mills is to be heard over KMOX in St. Louis soon... he hops a plane July 1 to take Ed Lowry's place as m. c. at the Ambassador Theater in that city...

WJSC at State College, Pa., was censured also for alleged failure to comply with the commission's equipment requirements...

And KQV carries the Cosmo Crooners, a quartet of college singers warbling popular songs. You'll like 'em, at 7:30 p. m., tonight only.

It won't be bedtime songs that Ada Brown, who appeared here in "Brown Buddies," will sing over KDKA at 11:25 p. m. Bill Robinson, most famous colored dancer, will be with her for the half-hour period.

* * *

Gene and Glenn

What is fame? These boys who receive more money per broadcast than Amos 'n' Andy and perhaps are wider known, were not recognized when they registered at the city's leading hostelry.

Gene was first to the desk and signed for the pair, "Gene and Glenn."

The clerk stared at the name.

"Is this other fellow with you?" he asked, pointing to Glenn Rowell.

"Oh, yeah, he's with me," replied Gene in his best "Jake" dialect.

"Well, he'll have to sign the register too," was the next shock from the hotel clerk.

The situation was different when Ruth Etting, Helen Morgan, Jack Pearl, Tito and girls from the Ziegfeld cast learned that the popular radio team had parked on the fifteenth floor. There was a lot of picture posing and all that sort of thing.

It came time to eat. When the waiter entered the room Gene Carroll played the part of "Jake" and had the hotel employe cuckoo trying to ascertain just what this "rube" wanted to eat.

"Oh bring me this here Garikokaris," complained Jake in disgust when he read the menu upside down.

The waiter didn't argue and 30 minutes later (it seemed like a week), returned with an order of chicken and corn in patty shell.

"Holy smoke," yelled Jake, banging his fork on the table. "Why didn't they just say it was a-gonna be a rooster and some corn done up in an ice cream cone.

Afterward as honor guests in a box at the "Follies," Gene and Glenn caused a small riot gesturing about the play and players. Few people in the audience were wise to their identity until Blaine Moke of "Riggs and Moke" appeared on the scene and gave them away.

"Gene and Glenn" have signed another six-month contract on the network at an increase in salary. The boys dazzled the eyes of Pittsburghers with a smart 16-NBC WTAM announcer.

With them was Ralph Lyon, NBC1WTAM announcer.

Slayer of Deputy Given 20 Years

BOYDTON, Va., June 22.—(AP.)—A Greenville County jury convicted Garland Smith of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Bernard Puryear and fixed his punishment as 20 years in the penitentiary. At a previous trial Smith was convicted of the charge and sentenced to die in the electric chair, but was saved when the Supreme Court of Appeals granted him a new trial.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, June 22.—Editors are interpreting Hoover's Midwest speeches—three of them were broadcast in three successive days—as the opening of the President's campaign for re-election.

And so it seemed from the unearthly yells that greeted his appearance before Indiana Republicans. It was like the convention razzle-dazzle of 1928. It indicated that the political whoopla is about to begin—is about to penetrate to the eardrums.

* * *

Well, let it come. It will be a change from the dusty-dry talks that have been aired for months by the politicians along the Potomac. It at least will have some measure of excitement — even though the excitement may be as trumped-up as the hey-heys of a night club.

Most of the warfare will be fought on the air waves. All kinds of vocal cannon will be brought up to belch the booms of the candidates. It may be the first campaign in which radio will largely decide the verdict. But there will have to be plenty of drama and force to catch the ears—and the votes. Old-fashioned bunk will have to go. The tremulous voices of the McKinley era will find no welcome.

* * *

It may be the strategists of headquarters will have to go outside of politics to get the right kind of bait for their ear-catching. It may be they will have to summon the news dispatchers, the famed story-tellers, the drama-sensed people of radio to their front lines to be sure of getting their message across to the folks at the fireside.

* * *

With a few exceptions politics has not uncovered exceptional radio personality, men or women whose voice and delivery and subject matter are invariably certain of winning an audience that will pay attention. To capture attention—that is the hardest job on the air in this day of restlessness and fiercely competitive ballyhoo. Only a few have it developed to an art.

Politicians don't seem to make much of an effort in making radio-speaking an art. They are content to drone their way through the ether, indifferent or ignorant of broadcasting technique. Even Hoover himself with all his experience in radio speaking or his dependence during the last two years upon the microphone has not yet perceptibly improved his broadcasting manner.

Nature, not parching, Makes CAMELS Mild

But the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camels are blended are naturally mild and gentle. Parching would only ruin their exquisite flavor and aroma.

No matter where you buy Camels you will find them always in factory-fresh condition. Their rare flavor together with their natural moisture is air-sealed-in by moisture-proof Cellophane. We call it the Humidor Pack.

No stinging particles of peppery dust to irritate the throat, no brackish smoke from stale tobacco; no burnt tongue from the hot smoke of dried-out cigarettes.

If you are not a Camel smoker, switch over for just one day. Then leave them—if you can.

Leaving the moisture-proof Cellophane on my Camel package when I open it protects the cigarettes against the odors of powder and perfume

NO CIGARETTY AFTER-TASTE

Tune in CAMEL QUARTER HOUR featuring Morton Downey and Tony Wons — Columbia Broadcasting System — every night except Sunday

● It is the mark of a considerate hostess, by means of the Humidor Pack, to "Serve a fresh cigarette." Buy Camels by the carton — this cigarette will remain fresh in your home and office

Read These FACTS . . .

We do not think the public in general is awake to the opportunity that exists today to own good furniture at great savings. And so, we ask you to read these facts and draw your own conclusions as to whether you agree that buying furniture now is an investment that merits your serious attention.

Boggs & Buhl has held more furniture sales during the past year than in any normal three-year period. The reasons are logical and sound business practice.

Serious financial difficulties have made it necessary for scores of furniture manufacturers to liquidate stocks during the past year.

We alone have purchased and sold more than a half million dollars worth of furniture — all secured from manufacturers who were forced to sell, oftentimes at less than their manufacturing costs.

All of this furniture has been sold to the public on the same basis as we bought it—way under normal prices.

Nor have we sold a single dollar's worth of furniture that wasn't up to the high standards that are a merchandise policy of our store.

During the past few weeks we have bought dozens of suites from a great many sources—all excellent buys — suites that are styled right and constructed right.

Tomorrow, in a great combined sale of over one hundred suites of all kinds, they go on sale — priced to you on the basis we bought them — less than half what they are actually worth!

We believe that fine furniture like these suites at such sensationally low prices are inducements that appeal to reason and action.

PLAN TO SPEED WORK TO AID JOBLESS

Contracts for Two Projects To Be Let at Meeting Tomorrow; Haste Sought

Construction of three new buildings and remodeling of a fourth, with a substantial addition, is included in the Board of Education's construction program for this year.

Contracts for the reconditioning and addition to the Larimer Elementary School and for the construction of four rooms and a kindergarten at the H. B. Davis Elementary School at Phillips avenue and Hobart street will be let at a meeting of the board tomorrow.

RUSH LARIMER JOB

Work on the Larimer School will commence at once. The interior is to be remodeled to fit the modern platoon system of education. The entire basement is to be done over, and fireproof stairs will be installed. Reopening of the building in the fall will be postponed for one month, until October, pending completion of interior work.

The construction of an auditorium and play rooms will be started in the fall. The entire Larimer project will cost $176,658.

The Davis School contract will approximate $88,351. The addition will house 200 children, while the entire structure, when finished, will accommodate 720.

PLAN DAVIDSON SCHOOL

Plans are being prepared for the William M. Davidson Junior High School, named after the late superintendent of schools. Work is to be started in the fall, at a cost of around $400,000. Located in the 2300 block of West Liberty avenue, at Bazore and Palm Beach streets, the structure is expected to take care of 900 pupils. Auditorium, gymnasium and swimming pool will be built later, raising total cost to about $600,000.

The Lincoln School, now under contract, will be completed in time for the spring session, it is understood, at a cost of $260,000. Six hundred and forty children will be taught there.

The board has adopted the policy of hastening its work, so far as possible, to provide added employment in Pittsburgh.

FOOD POISONING BLAMED FOR DEATH

Father Dead, Four Children Ill After Chicken Dinner; Four Others Unaffected

Possibility of food poisoning, attributed by Dr. G. C. McMaster to chicken eaten last night, marked the death early today of a father and violent illness of four of his children, according to a coroner's report. Henry Ambill, 62, died at his home, 1436 McFarland road, South Hills, less than 15 hours after eating his Sunday dinner.

The four children, who are under physician's care at their home, are Esther, 14; Ernest, 18; Lydia, 14, and Mathilda, 16.

Their mother and three other children—J. W., Marie, 28, and Louise Ambill, 26, who ate sparingly last night, have not been affected.

Dr. T. R. Helmbold, who performed an autopsy, said death was due to acute indigestion, with strong possibility of food poisoning. Samples of the food are being analyzed. The coroner has ordered a post-mortem.

BROKEN GLASS SHOWERED ON PASSENGERS

Car With Crowd From Park Splits Switch; Wires Fall, Causing Near Stampede

Splitting a switch at Murray avenue and Loretta street, a street car carrying two score persons returning from Kennywood Park early today crashed against two iron street poles, injuring a dozen persons, five seriously. The poles were toppled, wires fell on the trolley and near panic followed.

Nearly every window on one side of the car was shattered. Glass was showered upon the passengers as they were hurled to the floor of the car. Police patrols from Hazelwood and Squirrel Hill stations took the injured to the Homeopathic Hospital.

The most seriously injured are confined to the hospital. They are:

MRS. SUSAN CERVEN, 50, of 5504 Darlington road, possible fracture of the spine.

SEVEN TAKEN HOME

Seven others were treated at the hospital and later moved to their homes. They are:

JENNIE STEWART, 34, of 4512 Liberty avenue; possible fracture of right shoulder.

WIRES SHED SPARKS

Approximately 40 persons were on the car. At the intersection the front trucks turned into Loretta street, while the rear trucks ran along Murray avenue before leaving the tracks. The car was hurled against a light pole and a trolley pole. Both poles were broken and wires torn down. The car was in darkness and passengers in near-panic while sparks leaped from broken wires.

Lieut. George Pischke and Wagonmen J. F. Ashenbrenner and Samuel Neely backed a patrol to the side doors of the car and helped the injured out. Others were taken into a second patrol. Radio cars were sent to the scene to direct traffic and to keep back the curious while repairs were being made. Traffic was tied up for more than two hours.

MAKING LAST TRIP

The trolley, a Squirrel Hill-Kennywood, No. 68, was making its last trip from the park to the city when the accident occurred. The crew consisted of Motorman Michael Druscher and Conductor Edward Farrell.

Representatives of the Pittsburgh Railways Company prepared today to investigate to determine what caused the trolley to split the switch.

English Shipping Chiefs Face Charges

LONDON, June 22.—(AP.)—Lord Kylsant, former chairman of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, was committed for trial in Criminal Court today on charges of issuing false annual reports on the company's condition. Harold J. Morland, Royal Mail auditor, was held for trial on the same allegations.

STABBING LAID TO JEALOUSY

The condition of Mrs. Leona Dawson, 35, of Molenauer, stabbed during a quarrel in Castle Shannon, was reported unchanged today at St. Joseph's Hospital, where physicians were endeavoring to save her life. Herman Whyles, 26, a boarder in her home, is being held in connection with the stabbing.

Mrs. Dawson was found on the steps of St. Ann's Church, Castle Shannon. George H. Dawson, her husband, is being held as a material witness.

The stabbing occurred after the three attended a motion picture show. Police said Whyles became jealous when he saw Dawson and Mrs. Dawson holding hands in the theater. Leaving the show, Whyles is alleged to have threatened to kill Dawson, and Dawson left his wife and Whyles to complain to Justice of the Peace John Popp, of Castle Shannon.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 22.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

Mr. Hoover is stealing my act. He wants to postpone international debts for a year. Two weeks ago I had the same scheme, only I took in more territory. I wantel to cancel everybody's, and every nation's debt, and the only persons that fell for my plan were two guys that owed me. They immediately agreed and cancelled. It's not government debts that's worrying us. Ramsey MacDonald, Hindenberg, and Andy Mellon are the only ones worried about government debts (and we try them to worry). It's individual debts that have the 119 million by the nape of the neck. We can always manage to dig up taxes. This old man interest that hurts.

Yours, WILL.

STUDENTS SELL ON HEARST PLAN

Lessons not in the curriculum of any school are being learned this summer by a group of students from colleges throughout Western Pennsylvania. Aspiring to sell their quota of magazine subscriptions and thus earn next year's tuition, they have enrolled with the Hearst Scholarship Plan.

Jerry Neaman, junior at Carnegie Tech, said:

"It means an education for us. We are ambitious and want college training. Money is needed, so we give up our summer vacations and work hard for 11 weeks to obtain generous commissions and a bonus.

"There is no such thing as easy money as far as we are concerned. Sometimes it isn't fun selling magazines, even when they are as good as Cosmopolitan and Good Housekeeping.

"Sometimes the weather is against us. Many a day we tramp through the rain or heat, because a day lost to us means many dollars lost. No two prospects are the same. I have found the principles of selling are truthfulness, cheerfulness and a belief in the product being sold."

Man Cut in Fight Escapes Hospital

Edward Hall, 36, Negro, who was cut on the chin, it is said, by W. W. Jacobs, 40, during a street fight at Somers street and Wylie avenue early yesterday and was being held in the Passavant Hospital, walked out of that institution, early this morning.

Look at Europe Showed Mellon It Wasn't Payday

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

America is going to wipe out all the bad debts and start a new book.

This idea seems tough until you realize they weren't going to pay us anyway.

Whole situation is summed up by the two southern Republicans. The big boy owed the little fellow 50 cents. Everywhere he went the little darky followed him.

Finally the big man said:

"What's the matter? Yo' look like I wasn't goin' to pay you'."

The little man replied:

Which made it mutual without being co-operative.

And after taking a bird's eye view of Europe this week, Andy Mellon must have figured that Europe also looks that way.

Well, it's all right with us. We're willing to do anything to help Europe out of the hole it got us into.

LIGGETT DENIES BLIGHT PERIL

There is little danger that the blight which has appeared in the white pine trees in Cook Forest State Park will destroy the timber, according to Thomas Liggett, Pittsburgh realtor, who led the movement for purchase of the forest by the state.

Answering Charles E. Zerby, district forester in charge of the park, who recently reported that the white pine blister rust had made heavy inroads into the Cook pines and threatened their destruction, Mr. Liggett said the remedy lay in the thorough elimination of gooseberry and current bushes in the vicinity of the trees. The bushes, he said, harbor the microbes that are responsible for the blight.

2 GYPSIES, $140 DISAPPEAR

Police of the Ohio Valley have been instructed to search for two Gypsies in an automobile, who late Saturday night accosted Mrs. John Klensic, of Leetsdale, on the ruse of telling her fortune, and removed $140 from her pocketbook, according to county detectives.

County detectives today sought three armed holdup men, who late Saturday robbed the Gravity Supply gasoline station on the William Penn highway, near Wilkinsburg, of $40.

Marie Szepietowski, 18, of 3333 Downing street, was arrested by North Side police early today on complaint of Christ Mischelle, of 607 Sandusky street, who accused her of stealing a locket and a ring valued at $55 when she and two other girls visited him yesterday.

2 DIE IN CHAIR FOR HOLDUP

BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 22.—(AP.)—Clarence Williams, 20, and Cleo Peterson, 23, Allegheny County Negroes, were executed at Rockview Penitentiary today for the murder of Burgess August F. Braum. Robert Smith, 22, found guilty of the same crime, died in Allegheny County Jail.

Williams, Peterson and Smith held up Burgess August F. Braum in his West Elizabeth butcher shop on October 4, 1930. A customer shouted "a holdup" and Braum hurled a meat cleaver, which struck Williams. The other men fled, but Williams remained to fire a shot that killed Braum.

Later the trio crossed the Monongahela River to Elizabeth and held up a filling station. They were captured a few days later. After conviction Smith died in the county jail.

HALL 'SQUATTER' OUSTER FIGHT RESUMES

County to Seek Court Writ To Eject Woman Keeping Home for Jobless Girls

County solicitors today were reported to be seeking a court writ for the removal of Mrs. Helen Uptegraff from the old City Hall, Smithfield street, where she has been housing unemployed women. Mrs. Uptegraff denied that she had received notice to vacate the building.

She moved into the empty structure about six weeks ago with written permission of the County Commissioners to establish a home for unemployed women on the model of the Helping Hand for men. Without funds, she obtained help only as it was volunteered and equipped several rooms on the first floor with furniture which was donated.

County officials state that they served notice on the woman 30 days ago to move. The 30 days will be up today, they say, and if she refuses to vacate they will seek a court writ to force her from the structure, they said.

The woman denied that she was served with any notice. She understood, she said, that she could occupy the building until it was needed for other purposes. The officials have not stated what use they have for the building.

M'ARDLE OUT FOR PLACE IN COUNCIL

Former Member Announces Renewal of Confidence in City Government as Aim

Former Councilman P. J. McArdle today announced that he would enter the Republican primary September 15 as a candidate for one of the four places in Council to be filled in the fall election.

"I will submit my name to the voters at the primary election to be held September 15 this year for the Republican nomination for member of city Council.

"My platform will be my record as a member of Council during the years I served the public as a member of that body, which record I conceive to be one of close study of, attention to and performance of the duties which attach to that office.

"Such intelligence as I possess will direct an independent and courageous course of action in promotion of such policies and actions as will tend to restore public confidence in the municipal government of the city of Pittsburgh.

"This result can be attained only by an insistence on honesty in public affairs, efficiency and decency in public administration and an honest and continuous effort to reduce the burdens of taxation to a point more in harmony with the reduced incomes of the people and the reduced earning power of property.

"To the accomplishment of these results I will constantly give my best endeavors if chosen by the people to serve them in the important office to which I aspire.

"I believe that a public office still is a public trust."

WEEK-END AUTO CRASHES KILL TWO HERE

Seven Others Injured in Series of Accidents; Death-Car Driver Is Held

Two men died in hospitals last night from injuries suffered in automobile accidents and seven persons were confined to their homes suffering injuries as a result of accidents in the district over the week-end. Highways were heavily traveled yesterday, the warm weather bringing out many motorists.

Anthony Exler, 27, of 820 Progress street, died in West Penn Hospital last night from injuries suffered several hours earlier when a machine driven by his brother, Charles, 41, of the same address, overturned at Murrayhill and Fifth avenues. Charles Exler was arrested and will appear before the coroner today to give bond pending the inquest. Others in the car who were injured were Thomas, 4, and Francis Exler, of the Progress street address; Frank Adamitz, 10, of 826 Carpenter way; Sigmund Benach, 30, of Saw Mill way and Stanley Majeski, of 822 Progress street.

August Schmidt, 79, of 621 Sheridan avenue, died in Pittsburgh Hospital from injuries suffered May 23 when hit by an automobile driven, police say, by E. F. Adams, of Tarentum.

Jospeh Dumblaske, 22, of Main street, Houston, narrowly escaped serious injury late yesterday when his automobile ran onto the sidewalk and crashed through a large window in the Eighth Avenue Restaurant, Homestead.

Aurelia Tain, of 104 Lemington avenue, Aspinwall, was removed to St. Francis Hospital suffering minor injuries last night when the automobile in which she was riding struck a stone wall at the intersection of the Creek and Hart roads. John Graham, of Aspinwall, the driver, escaped unhurt.

Johnny Mack Brown Departs Film Company Which Gave Him Start

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, June 22.

With seven months left to go on his five-year contract, Johnny Mack Brown and M. G. M. have canceled the remaining time by mutual agreement.

Doubtless this will come as a surprise to many, as Johnny was given his first opportunity by Louis B. Mayer and has been under contract to the company since his college football days.

Recently he has been loaned to other studios, Universal being the last where he played in "Lasca of the Rio Grande." They were dickering for the balance of his contract, and planning to feature him in a serial titled, "Battling with Buffalo Bill."

John M. Brown

According to the terms of his M. G. M. contract the actor had the privilege of either accepting or not accepting the picture, and chose the latter.

He returned to the Metro lot, and as there was nothing scheduled in the near future for him he asked for his release, which was granted.

Both the studio and the actor have nothing but good feelings and friendliness toward each other in the transaction. There seems to be little doubt as to Johnny Mack's future. Already his manager has offers for both pictures and long-term contracts, and a choice will be made soon.

TIRED?

There's a blonde leading lady whom Paramount signed several months ago. She hasn't done any work as yet, but the other day breezed into David Selznick's office and asked when she was going to get a vacation.

LATEST GOSSIP

Lilyan Tashman has introduced a substitution for hors d'oeuvres, which is becoming the fad at luncheon in a Hollywood cafe. It is rolls generously sprinkled with Parmesian cheese. Lil has another recipe which is only told to intimate friends. It's rye bread toasted, buttered then rubbed with the bud of a garlic. However, that's only for home consumption . . .

Mitzi Green

MORE FISHING REELS

Enthusiastic over the way his "Fisherman's Paradise" was received, Harold Austin and his crew have been in Mexican waters for the past three months obtaining more scenes for short subjects. They are back with several thousand feet of spectacular shots of various species of the sea. Some of the film is amazing, particularly one sequence which shows the spearing and capturing of a giant sea bat. They have enough material to make four shorts in all. Photographed silently, the dialogue will be written and recorded by Pete Smith, erstwhile publicity director of M. G. M.

WELLMAN RETURNS

Some year or so ago William Wellman and Paramount came to a parting of the ways, and Wellman went his way, which proved to be Warners, where he directed "The Public Enemy" and other hits.

It was Wellman who started Buddy and Richard Arlen to stardom in "Wings."

Ruth Weston Assigned New Screen Role

Ruth Weston has been assigned a role in "Should Wives Work," Radio Picture to star Mary Astor, with Robert Ames in a feature role. Miss Weston recently completed a successful "bit" in "The Woman Between," with Lily Damita, O. P. Heggie, Lester Vail and Miriam Seegar under direction of Victor Schertzinger.

Leo Carrillo Is Starred In Harris Picture

"Hell Bound," heralded as presenting a different type of underworld melodrama, opened Saturday on the Harris screen. Leo Carrillo is starred. Lola Lane, Lloyd Hughes and Helene Chadwick are in the cast.

DAD ADVISES

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Nixon tonight begins the second week of the same show that was there last week. Ah, yes, it would have to be the same, wouldn't it, to be in the second week? What, you hadn't heard what it is! Don't kid me! Well, then, let's have a little guessing contest. What is it that has been the second word of a phrase beginning "Ziegfeld's" and has been offered in annual "editions," tagged as "glorifying the American girl," for a number of years, and was missing for a few seasons until now? Correct! Sorry we cannot offer tickets for the "Follies" as awards for the best, neatest and quickest answers. However, there are a few consolation prizes of a self-administered pat on the back.

Small Timer, looking to see if the ushers are in the right place to lead the spontaneous applause, remarks that, despite the vaunted health benefits of summer, the summer heat doesn't make him feel so hot.

"Tempest and Sunshine" will temp and shine on Cap'n Menke's Golden Rod show boat at Montrose Landing, opening tonight. Eight forty-five is the way to clock yourself for a timely arrival at this floating arena of dramatic endeavor. Once they begin a night's work the Menke troupers never rest until it is thoroughly done, so don't be surprised to see them stepping out in vaudeville between acts.

Small Timer, finishing his song, "They Didn't Give Tex a Big Landing," declares the fact that he isn't dumb is indicated in the numerous times he has been fired for knowing too much.

Ernest Torrence Plays Horse Trainer

Ernest Torrence, playing the horse trainer in "Horse Flesh," had to make the personal acquaintance of several race horses to play the part. In his role, he has to examine feet, teeth and register extreme familiarity with his charges. So he fed the horses sugar for several days until they regarded him as their best friend, before he started his scenes.

Miss Boardman, Cooper In War Picture

Eleanor Boardman, now making her debut as a Paramount contract player, is making preparations to appear opposite Gary Cooper in the all-star production of Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms." She will commence work for this dramatic war story shortly. Cooper is now on his way to Europe for a brief vacation in Italy and "A Farewell to Arms" will begin on his return next month. Richard Wallace, veteran of the World War, will direct.

Playwrights Are Signed By Film Studio

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has signed new contracts with George Kelly and Charles MacArthur, playwrights, and also with Jean Hersholt. Kelly and MacArthur are now at work at the Culver City studio. Hersholt's last role was in John Gilbert's "Cheri-Bibi."

End Acidity, Gas, Belching, Quick New Way

ACIDINE is entirely different from other known remedies. Contains the marvelous digestant Juptase. In laboratory experiments Juptase has been tested on certain starchy foods which cause so much stomach distress. It digested 300 times its weight of such foods in only 30 minutes. Five other scientific ingredients stop burning acid, soothe irritated stomach linings, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach pain.

Don't run chances of dangerous painful troubles from acidity. Get ACIDINE today and note quick relief from sourness, pain and belching. You can eat, drink and smoke all you like. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

Folks are beginning to arrive for one of the weddings of the week, that of Carolyn Margaret McKee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George J. McKee, and Dr. A. Boyd Miller, Jr., of Erie, which will take place Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in Christ Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Miller, Mary Agnes Miller, the Wilbur Millers, Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Wilson, Clark Wilson and the C. C. Milloys, all of Erie; Miss Hilda Merry, of Buffalo, and the Rev. and Mrs. N. B. Tannehill, of St. Petersburg, Fla., will attend the wedding.

Also arriving for the wedding are the William C. Bonds, of Washington; Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Frountz and Richard Frounts, Mrs. O. C. Wells, Mrs. David Ramey Patton and Mrs. Oliver C. Mordorf, of Huntingdon.

Summery clothes certainly had their day at the Civic Club benefit garden party Saturday afternoon. There were eyelet batistes and gay prints and chiffons and smart sport frocks galore, and there were berets, cloches and panamas. And floppey coarse straw hats were much in vogue, too, and I saw a few starched cotton hats.

Variety Of Styles

Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., at whose home in Sewickley Heights the affair was held, looked charming in a fragile black and white chiffon.

Others I saw were Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, who was the director of the pageant closing the afternoon, "The Spirit of the Garden." She wore a white and red print. Mrs. George Phelps Rose, who was assisting her, I saw in the rose garden giving a few last-minute instructions to those appearing in the pageant, given on the lawn facing the home. She wore a powder blue shantung costume with a hat to match.

* * *

Seen In Gardens

Sitting on the spacious veranda was Mrs. William F. Hill and a group of friends. Nearby were her daughter, Eleanor Hill, in a brown and white costume and a coarse straw hat, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. J. G. Hill.

Among those I saw with Mrs. Thaw were Miss Rachel Dohrman, her sister, and Miss Sarah Kennedy. Visiting the rose gardens were Mrs. T. C. Jenkins, Elizabeth Jenkins and Mrs. William T. McCullough, Jr.

Others who were there were Mrs. William MacClay Hall, Mrs. George J. Bissell, Mrs. Ralph W. Harbison and Mrs. Samuel A. Pickering in a rose print. Jan Sloan wore a brown printed frock.

* * *

Mrs. W. H. McAfee wore a blue and white frock and a floppy, coarse white straw hat banded in blue and rose and green.

Among those playing bridge under the pergolas were Mrs. Bruce Harlow, Mrs. Kinley Tener, Mrs. Alexander Nimick and Mrs. Charles A. Jones.

Of course there were loads and loads of people in the pageant, but I mentioned all of them a few days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Birmingham will reside in Erie when they return from their wedding trip.

Mary Thelma Smyers Weds John E. Osterle

Miss Mary Thelma Smyers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Grace, of Ellsworth avenue, became the bride of John Edward Osterle, also of the East End, on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock, in the Sacred Heart Church.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, John Kenneth Reuss, wore a gown of white chiffon and lace. She was attended by her sister, Miss Bertha Margaret Smyers, who wore forget-me-not blue chiffon. Roy E. Osterle was his brother's best man.

The wedding breakfast was served in the Rittenhouse, after which Mr. and Mrs. Osterle left for a motor trip to Hollywood, Cal., where they will reside. A great-aunt of the bride, Mrs. Catherine Chayton, of Steubenville, O., was among the out-of-town guests.

Irwin Brides-Elect Honored at Luncheon

Miss Virginia Wolf, whose engagement to Harry E. MacIntosh, of Elmira, N. Y., and Miss Janice Wolfe, whose betrothal to Jackson Wheatley, of Philadelphia, was announced, will be guests of honor at a bridge luncheon on Saturday at the Willows, Oakmont. Miss Mary and Miss Sara Moot will be hostesses at the affair. Miss Virginia and Miss Janice Wolfe are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Wolfe, of Irwin.

Dorothy M. Kuckert To Marry on July 3

Mrs. Charles A. Kuckert, of Crosby street, Beechview, entertained Saturday afternoon, June 13, with a bridge luncheon at which her daughter, Miss Dorothy Mae Kuckert, announced her wedding date as Friday, July 3. She will wed Lewis E. Schmidt, of Jonquil place, Mt. Lebanon, on that day.

Miss Catherine Waigand Marries Edmund J. Karl

Miss Catherine Waigand, daughter of Mrs. C. C. Waigand, of Spring street, Mt. Oliver, became the bride of Edmund J. Karl, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Karl, of Arlington avenue, on Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock, at a solemn nuptial mass in St. Henry's Roman Catholic Church, Arlington avenue.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a flowing skirt, and a veil of tulle finished with a cap of tulle embroidered in seed pearls. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Grace Guthoerl, niece of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a frock of flowered chiffon with an orchid straw hat. Her bouquet was of Japanese tea roses. The flower girl was Marion Winters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Winters, of Carrick, who wore a dainty frock of pink crepe and carried a basket of spring flowers.

The bridesmaids included Miss Clara Kress, cousin of the bride, in pale pink chiffon with a matching horsehair hat, and Miss May Karl, sister of the bridegroom, in green crepe with a matching hat. Both carried pink roses.

Belgian Queen Doctor And Skilled Musician

BRUSSELS.—Had Queen Elizabeth, of the Belgians, sat in one of those post-war thrones that trembled with such violence as to dislodge their occupants, she would have been far better equipped to cope with the changed order than were many.

She would have needed only to hang out a professional shingle reading "Elizabeth, M. D.," and could have begun taking in fees as a practicing physician.

True daughter of that princely oculist, her father, the Queen is not only a doctor of medicine, but has interested herself in various arts and sciences.

She attends all national and international scientific congresses held here and delights in discoursing learnedly with scientific specialists of one sort and another.

The Queen is as interested in the arts as she is in science, being herself a violinist who plays with such technical skill and true feeling that her chapel master, the world famous Eugene Ysaye, who died recently, often played duets with her.

Thaws Among Boxholders For Southampton Bouts

NEW YORK.—The cool Berkshire Hills and seaside resorts have lured throngs of Manhattan social lights away from the city this season, though a great many gay parties are being planned for penthouses and roof gardens by those who will stay at home.

For instance, there are the Friday night boxing matches and the wrestling matches on Saturday nights at the Southampton Athletic Club.

Ringside boxes for the season have been taken by Mr. and Mrs. William Thaw III, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Hutton and Mr. and Mrs. George Leary, Jr.

Trousers for Women Taboo at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England.—(AP.)—Trousers, it appears, are not going to be the mode on Wimbledon's tennis court this summer.

An official said:

"There is no rule as to what women players may wear, but I am sure that should anyone appear in trousers the matter would be discussed by the committee and they would not play on the center court."

On the other hand, Senorita de Alvarez, the Spanish player, wears trousers.

Another official remarked:

"The senorita will choose her own costume, but there is nothing startling about her dress. She plays in a form of divided skirt which looks exactly like an ordinary skirt."

Delegates Asked to Wear Frocks Made of Southern Fabrics To Richmond Meeting

An appeal that the delegates bring wardrobes of cotton dresses has been sent out by the committees arranging the annual convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs which will be held in Richmond, Va., July 6 to 11.

On the night of the convention ball and banquet no one will be admitted to the floor unless she wears cotton and prizes will be awarded for the most attractive costumes—a compliment on the part of the committee to the South's leading industry.

A new note this year will be in the presence of both the Canadian and French Federation presidents, Miss Dorothy Heneker, of Montreal, and Mme. Mary Laudner, of Paris.

Banquet July 7

The international relations banquet on Tuesday, the second day of the convention, will be one of the high lights. On Monday evening a reception will be held at the governor's mansion and on Wednesday the usual custom of holding an emblem breakfast ceremony will take place at midnight. The public relations banquet is scheduled for Thursday and the ball and pageant for Friday.

Miss Martha Morrison, its president, is the official delegate from the Pittsburgh Club which will also be represented by Miss Ella King Vogel, who has been appointed one of five delegates at large from the state. The Wilkinsburg organization will have its president, Mrs. Janet M. Snyder, and Miss Flora Bell, Miss Agnes Bauman, Miss Lizzie Fisher, Miss Carolyn Kinch, Mrs. L. A. Bauman, Miss Bessie Smith, Miss Edith Walp, Miss Margaret Rogers and Miss Lillian Rogers. In the same car will be Miss Anna P. Gray, McKeesport president; Miss Christine Johnston, New Kensington president, and one of her constituents, Miss Ida Osborne.

* * *

Assisting Mrs. Mark McGaffey, chairman of tomorrow's benefit for the Dolly Madison Chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, are Mrs. J. W. Henry, Mrs. W. J. Anthony, Mrs. George W. Hosack, Mrs. H. H. Rowand, Mrs. E. C. Hugus and Mrs. J. George Kahl. The benefit will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry J. Horner, Belmont street, East End, and the proceeds will be go towards the chapter's fund for Kentucky mountain school children.

* * *

The new clubhouse of the Bridgeville Woman's Club will be formally opened by the junior and senior sections on Friday evening, June 26, and the public has been invited to attend. Mrs. J. Lloyd MacKown, is senior president, Mrs. George P. Murray, chairman of the building committee, and Mrs. James L. Wible, chairman of the furnishings.

Dulcina Marshall Is Married to W. P. Walker

The marriage of Miss Dulcina Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Preston Marshall, of Rosslyn road, Carnegie, and William Presley Walker, of Carnegie, was solemnized Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Marshall home. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. John M. Wishart, of the First Presbyterian Church, of Carnegie.

Miss Inez E. Wallis, as maid of honor, wore a frock of pink embroidered mousseline de Soie and carried pink roses and blue delphinium. H. Ford Moore, of Wilkinsburg, served as best man.

An informal reception and buffet supper was given after the wedding.

Mrs. Walker is a graduate of Pennsylvania College for Women and the bridegroom is a University of Pittsburgh man.

BUSH SAYS LEFTIES FACE EXTINCTION

IF DONIE BUSH has the right dope, there may be some happy days in store for the Pirates after all, days when they'll be able to win ball games with some degree of regularity. But those days, unfortunately, are 10 years off. Bush didn't have the Buccaneers in mind when he made his calculation, but he was dealing with their prospects unconsciously, because he was talking about lefthanders, who have been making life a burden to the Ensmen this season.

Donie Bush

The former manager of the Corsairs, now piloting the Chicago White Sox, believes that southpaw pitchers are facing extinction. He predicts that in another decade few of the eccentric brood of hurlers will be found in professional baseball, basing his prophecy on the opinion that the schools are going to drive them out of the game by training the boys along righthand lines. Besides, in spite of the baseball longevity of Clarence Mitchell, Herb Pennock, Tom Zachary and other veteran forkhanders, Bush figures that southpaws as a rule cannot last as long as righthanders.

DONIE WENT PRETTY deeply into the southpaw subject with Harold Johnson. When reminded that it has been a great season for lefthanders up to now he said that was not to be considered a lasting condition but something that happens periodically, like a plague of locusts. He estimates that southpaws will become scarcer and scarcer until there are mighty few of them left.

"I believe they are going to fade out gradually," Donie said. "That's because the schools are teaching the boys to be righthanded in everything. They call it scientific schooling or something like that. Then, too, a southpaw doesn't last as long as an orthodox hurler. I'd say it's because the heart is on the left side and the pitching motion of a southpaw places a strain upon it."

IN SPITE OF their 11-inning victory over the Giants in the fifth and final game of the New York series, the Pirates, charged with five errors, were far from impressive. The fielding, as well as the hitting, will have to improve before any upward drive can develop.

In the five New York games, the Bucs scored a total of only 11 runs. The Sunday victory was only the second in the last 10 contests, and only the sixth in the last 21. The Ensmen up to today had not won two games in succession since they grabbed a pair from the Cardinals in St. Louis May 27 and 28.

GEORGE GRANTHAM came within one of the modern record for errors in one game by a second baseman when he fooled four times in the first nine innings of the Sunday debate with the Giants. Charley Hickman made five miscues at the midway for the Washington Americans on September 29, 1905, and Napoleon Lajoie was charged with the same number on April 22, 1915, after he had been transferred to the A's from Cleveland. The all-time record is eight, made by Andrew Leonard, of the Boston Nationals, on June 14, 1876, the first year of the league. Bill Robinson, of the Cincinnati American Association club, piled up seven in a game on May 26, 1891. Grantham holds the modern National League record for errors in a season at second base, having made 55 while with the Cubs in 1923, and he is in a fair way to beat it this season if he is allowed to remain at the keystone station.

Mickey Cochrane

THE SENATORS' DOPE that the A's would do some skidding on the present western trip with Mickey Cochrane missing from the lineup has not been borne out so far. With John Heving in Cochrane's place, the Macks have won the first three games of the tour in Chicago.

The loss of Cochrane's services for an extended period could hardly fail to prove disastrous, of course. No club could be quite the same if suddenly deprived of the greatest catcher of his time. But if Mickey gets back as soon as expected, or by the end of this week, the chances are the A's will be able to keep going that long without doing any serious slipping.

WHAT THE SENATORS are banking on is that Mack's three star pitchers may begin to waver when they find they can't throw to Heving or any other reserve catcher as confidently as they can pitch to Cochrane.

That's aside from Mickey's skill in other branches of the catching art. Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg can always feel pretty sure that no matter where they send the ball Cochrane will get it. He is a great saver of pitchers and stops many a wild pitch. He hurls himself at a wide fling like a football player making a tackle and almost invariably comes up with it. And a passed ball with him is a rarity. Last year he was charged with only seven in 130 games.

WHETHER THE ABSENCE of Cochrane had anything to do with it or not, it is a fact that George Earnshaw, in pitching his twelfth straight victory yesterday, within four of the American League record set by Joe Wood and Walter Johnson in 1912, was not up to his previous standards. He gave nine bases on balls, hit a batter and had to be relieved by Grove with one out in the ninth inning. That was the only victory in his string of 12 in which he required any help. In every one of the previous 11 triumphs he pitched the entire distance, and one of them went two extra innings.

FOUR-LETTER MEN in high schools have become rather commonplace as a general thing, but there is one institution of that grade where such an athlete is considered unusual. Beaver High School this year boasted its first in 13 years.

Back in 1918, Paul Jones, later a star collegiate performer, first at Geneva and then at Franklin and Marshall, and who is now prominent in boys' work at Beaver, won his letter in four sports at Beaver High—football, baseball, tennis and track.

JONES' FEAT WAS duplicated this year by Jack Roush, though the latter won his fourth letter in basketball instead of tennis. And another unusual angle to the case is that it was Jones who gave the youngster his chance.

John Dreshar

For some years Jones has been sponsoring an amateur baseball team, and it met with so much success that the local high school adopted the sport this season. The school nine was made up of the same boys who had learned the game under Jones and Roush won his letter as rightfielder.

FOOTBALL MEN HERE and elsewhere who had a chance to study John Dreshar during his career as center, guard and two-time captain at Carnegie Tech, are predicting he will be a coaching success from the start if Western Reserve, as is reported probable, gives him a chance as assistant to Head Coach Tom Keady next fall. Dreshar proved a fine leader and a smart player for the Tartan, and is believed to have all the requisites of a successful gridiron mentor. Wally Steffen gave evidence of having found unusual qualities in him when he twice appointed Dreshar captain of the Plaid eleven.

FRENCH STAR BOWS, U. S. ACES WIN

WIMBLEDON STADIUM, England, June 22. — (AP.) — Henri Cochet, the world's leading tennis player, was eliminated from the Wimbledon championships today by the comparatively unknown Nigel Sharpe, of Great Britain, in straight sets. The scores were 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

The "mighty atom" of the French courts found his recent illness and Sharpe's playing too much to overcome and succumbed with only a faint struggle.

He had been forced to cancel his entry in the French championships because of a threatened breakdown and a cold and entered Wimbledon play against the advice of his physicians.

Because of his physical condition he had been seeded No. 2 behind Jean Borotra and his play indicated even that was too high a ranking for him in his present state of health.

SHIELDS IN TOP FORM

Cochet's defeat overshadowed in interest the fine first-round victory of Frank X. Shields, of New York, who won from South Africa's veteran Davis Cup star, Dr. P. D. B. Spence, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

It was an auspicious bow for the American youngster on the famous center court, where the great of tennis have trod.

He played with languid ease against the experienced South African doctor, winning as he pleased. It was only by flashes of a fierce service that Spence was able to take the four games young Shields allowed him.

The New York youngster's ground strokes were near perfection and the swiftness of his service was reminiscent of Big Bill Tilden.

OTHER U. S. STARS WIN

Two other American stars also achieved straight-set victories. John Van Ryn conquered F. Schaeffer, of Jugoslavia, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1, and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., romped through his match with R. Singh, of India, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Christian Boussus, leading younger player of France, had a fight on his hands with L. Raymond, ranking South African, to win, 7-5, 6-0, 6-6.

George Lott, Jr., of Philadelphia, joined his three Davis Cup mates in the second round with a four-set victory over B. Berthet, of France, the scores being 3-6, 6-3, 6-0, 6-2.

TECH, GENEVA MEET IN '32

By JESS CARVER

Arrangements have been made for the Tartans to take on the Covenanters, of Beaver Falls, in the locals' opening game of the 1932 season, in a daylight contest at Beaver Falls.

The game will mark a resumption of grid relations between the two institutions after a hiatus of 10 years. Howard Harpster, Carnegie's greatest quarterback, an all-America ace, is coach of Geneva, having served his first season there last fall.

Other games arranged by Tech for next fall are:

The Tipoff

Crome has taken another one on the phiz. John Harris, Tech's famous fullbacker of 1928, '29 and '30, is working in the interests of law and order as a policeman at West View Park, Monaca. John will paddle a beat throughout the summah.

While on the subject of Carnegie Tech, I am reliably informed that the Tartans will be without the services of Harry McCurdy, who quarterbacked most of last year and the year previous. McCurdy, so the word is, is "out" due to having missed a drop-kick or two in the classroom. If he makes his work up, he'll be eligible again in 1932.

McCurdy had a rather stormy time last fall. He was a pretty fair quarterback in 1929 as he took the job vacated by Harpster, but last year, he slumped once or twice at very inopportune moments, and midway during the season was replaced at quarterback by Stuart Denger.

Vic Pickard was rudely treated by Old Lady Fortune Saturday when he pulled a tendon while trying his first vault at the A. A. U. meet. The former Pitt and Canadian Olympic star had been working out for five months in preparation for the local championships, and intended to compete at Lincoln in the Nationals in July. Now he'll be out of competition for the remainder of the summer, unless a miracle occurs, and miracles are not given to turning up for the benefit of pulled tendons.

CADDIE TEAMS QUALIFY

Six new clubs have qualified caddie teams for the fourth annual William Randolph Hearst junior amateur tourney, which is to be held under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on Tuesday, June 30.

The country Club of Pittsburgh, Valley Heights Golf Club, Thornburg Country Club, Butler Country Club, Wildwood Country Club and Pup's Foot Golf Club are now in the fold.

John Collins and Stanley Hanna, caddiemasters at Shannopin, also qualified a team for the tourney. Ray Urban, George Mansak and John Watters had the low score, a 93, over the rain-drenched course. The fourth member of the first team is Joe Puakiz, who carded 98. The second team includes: William Sefick, 100; S. P. Fransak, 102; Tom Jones, 102, and Adolph Cabrierowsky, 102. Harry Siegel had 103, Morris Katz, 103, Charles Wasthak, 113, and Al Stadnik, 108.

The Butler Country Club caddies came into the fold today, under the direction of Caddiemaster Leslie Goodrich, at 18 holes medal play. George Demyanodich, 17, having the low tally, a 92. George Dilowich, 17, and Vitmond Curowski, 15, tied at 94, and John Corondo, 15, with 96, was the last man on the first team. The other qualifiers were: Clifford McMillen, 17, 98; Steve Twerdok, 17, 98; John Mahoney, 18, 98, and Frabj Dano, 16, 98.

Charley Parous, caddiemaster at Thornburg, will have the following

Bannister Sets Amateur Record At St. Clair

Bryant Bannister established a new amateur course record at the St. Clair Country Club yesterday, when he scored a 69, one under par. The professional record, a 66, scored by Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland pro, was established before the layout of the course was changed.

Bannister was playing with Jimmy McNeely, who had a 75, against Charles E. Johnson and Ralph Sawyer. His card:

CHAMP ENTERS JUNIOR PLAY

Anthony Myers, just 18, the boy who copped the William Randolph Hearst Trophy last year, has entered the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's fourth annual Western Pennsylvania junior amateur tournament, which is to be held at the Schenley Park municipal links on Tuesday, June 30—one week from tomorrow.

That makes two former champions in the field of battle—Joe Stevenson, the Penn (Pa.) boy, who won the honors in 1929, and Myers.

COLLEGE GOLF PLAY OPENS

CHICAGO, June 22. — (AP.) — One hundred and twenty-three college golf stars, including George T. Dunlap, Jr., of Princeton, and Lawrence Moller, of Notre Dame, finalists last year, will try the traps and bunkers of Olympia Fields today in the opening round of the national intercollegiate championships.

It will be the first time in the history of the event that it has been decided in the Middle West and the field, with Dunlap, the titleholder, and Moller, the runner-up, from last year, stacks up as unusually strong.

The qualifying rounds, at 18 holes each, will be held today and tomorrow. The team title will be defended by Princeton, which has entered five players.

The individual field will be reduced to 32 in two 18-hole rounds Wednesday, with the quarter-finals set for Thursday and the semi-finals for Friday. The championship final, at 36 holes, will be played Saturday.

Among the more prominent contenders and favorites are Sam Parks, Jr., of Pitt, and Fred Brand, of Penn State, who exhibited fine golf in last year's tournament at Oakmont. Parks will compete in the national open as the only amateur entry from the Pittsburgh district.

NEW YORK, June 22. — The Pirates, as they prepared to visit the Flatbush this afternoon, had the feelings of a man who had turned in a good job. The courageous stand made by the Freebooters at the Polo Grounds yesterday brought a victory that proved to be just the tonic needed for a manager who was just about ready to give up on his hitters. The Pirates actually made five runs and 14 hits in one ball game even if they had to carry on for 11 rounds to win the decision.

A four-game series with the Robins is due to get under way with a single contest this afternoon. The Buccos and Flatbush flock are down on the books for a doubleheader tomorrow.

WOOD TO PITCH

Manager Ens had an important announcement to make this morning relative to his pitching plans. Ens stated that barring unforeseen incidents he would assign Southpaw Charley Wood to the slab against the Robins this afternoon. The Wichita sensation has been a big disappointment this season, but Ens has not quit on the youngster. Watson Clark, the same lefthander who blanked the Pirates in Pittsburgh last Wednesday is likely to be in action against the Buccos.

The Pirates' 11-inning success over the Giants at the Polo Grounds yesterday was accompanied by many heroics. The Buccos were trailing by a run as late as the eighth inning, but thanks to some clever stick work on the part of Catcher Earl Grace and Jim Mosolf, the Freebooters were able to force a deadlock. They won out in the eleventh, 5 to 4.

Heinie Meine had been hurling in his charasteristic style, but

(Baseball's Comedian)

CLEVELAND, June 22.—Griff said today, "Nick, are you a Republican or Democrat?" I said, "I am half a Republican. The Red Sox are using Hoover's 20-year plan to win the pennant. That is O. K. On the other hand, Hoover spent all last week dedicating the tombs of Harding and Lincoln. That is all right, too. But I can't support him till he catches a baseball from the top of Washington's monument." Griff said, "What about the Republican tariff?" I said, "under the Republican tariff we have produced more home runs than American can absorb. If the Republicans want to do something worthwhile, they will erect a higher tariff wall from outfield fences and make a home run worth more than it is now."

WES FERRELL'S ARM, BAT CHECK SENATORS

K. O. Kitts Victim of Young Stribling's First Knockout in Training Camp

CARDS SPLIT EVEN WITH BOSTON

Associated Press.

Wesley Ferrell, big right handed mound ace of the Cleveland Indians, not only is winning his share of games on the hill, but he is batting well above the .300 mark and often hitting 'em when they count.

Yesterday he not only held the mighty Washington Senators to seven hits in a duel with Alvin Crowder but he won the game with a home run, his fourth of the season. Ferrell hit for the circuit in the seventh inning, breaking a 1-1 tie. In the next frame Morgan hit another homer to make the final score 3-1.

YANKS LOSE TWO

Wesley's brother, Rick, who catches for the St. Louis Browns, also hit a homer yesterday to assume one of the featured roles in another surprising baseball tale. His four bagger aided the Browns in winning their second victory of the day over the New York Yankees. St. Louis took the first game, 9-7, despite Babe Ruth's thirteenth homer. They won the second, 8-2.

The defeats of Washington and the Yanks put the Philadelphia Athletics in a safer place than they have held for the past few days. The A's won their fifth straight game, nosing out Chicago, 6 to 5, and increasing their lead to four games.

Boston won the other American League clash, beating Detroit, 7-6.

Among the National League leaders the situation also became tense as St. Louis improved its position with an even break in a doubleheader with the Boston Braves. Frankhouse and Brandt stopped the Cards with five hits to win the first game, 6-2. They got the same number of blows off Socks Seibold, but Young Pepper Martin came through with a homer behind Grimes' equally good hurling and St. Louis won the second, 1-0.

GIANTS BEATEN

With a chance to register a sweep the New York Giants lost a half game when their defense fell apart in the eleventh inning of a battle with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Two errors in the eleventh enabled the Pirates to win 5-4.

Philadelphia kept on even terms in its private race with Pittsburgh for sixth place by beating Cincinnati 7 to 1.

Brooklyn continued its stern chase of the leaders by beating the Chicago Cubs 7 to 6. The Robins came through with the winning run in their half of the ninth and handed Vance his fifth straight victory.

JACOBS MAKES TITLE BID

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 22.—(AP.)—Eighty-five players representing 36 colleges from coast to coast are entered in the forty-sixth annual intercollegiate lawn tennis championship tournament which begins today at the Merion Cricket Club here. Last year the entries numbered 103.

Clifford Sutter, of Tulane, who won the singles championship last year, will not defend the title as he is out of college.

The doubles champions are Dolf Muelheisen and Robert Muench, of the University of California, who are not entered in the 1931 tournament.

Bryan Grant, Jr., of the University of North Carolina, is seeded No. 1. The other seeded players in their order are Edward Jacobs, of the University of Pittsburgh; Keith Gledhill, Stanford; Wilbur F. Coen, Jr., Kansas; Bruce Barnes, Texas; David Jones, Columbia; Teddy Burwell, University of the South; Wilmer Hines, University of North Carolina; Donald Strachan, Princeton, and R. W. Ryan, Yale.

BECKLEY GAINS ON LEADERS

Beckley's drive to reach a ranking spot in the Middle Atlantic League evidently is to be crowned with success. The West Virginians have worked into a tie for third place, gaining the position yesterday by beating Hagerstown, 6 to 5, while the slumping Scotties were dropping a double bill to Clarksburg, 9-4 and 7-6.

Cumberland, in second place, was held idle by rain, and the leading Charleston crew lost ground, dropping an 8 to 3 decision to Fairmont. Slaughter kept the Senators' eight hits well scattered.

Jachym, of Wheeling, turned in the best pitched game of the day as he blanked Charleroi, 5 to 0. Jachym limited the Guys to three hits, which he kept very well scattered.

Altoona and Johnstown indulged in a slugging match at Johnstown, the Railroaders finally winning, 15 to 11. Altoona secured 18 hits and Johnstown wasted a portion of its 20 in only scoring 11 runs.

In the Hagerstown-Beckley game, Jennings, although touched for 10 hits, went the route for Beckley.

ARMY FOUR WINS

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Given a three-goal handicap, the United State Military Academy's polo four, which won the intercollegiate handicap tournament, defeated the first division team, 7 to 5, at Van Cortlandt Park, Hamilton, Brooklyn, yesterday.

There'll be no box-fighting in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, tonight, the Jackie Rodgers-Chico Cisneros bout and accompanying program going over one full week due to an arm injury suffered by Cisneros in training. The postponement was announced late last night.

Chico Cisneros

This means that a Jimmy Belmont-Tommy Freeman battle, arranged for next Monday night at the Bowl, will be set back at least a week.

The idea of staging a Freeman-Belmont bout at this time is to set the stage for a Belmont-McTiernan grudge setto at a later date. Freeman recently won a gift and unpopular decision over Buck at the Bowl. Meanwhile, Buck is in with Ted Yarosz, undefeated welterweight, of Monaca, at Hickey Park, Millvale, Thursday night of next week, with Joey Goodman, of Cleveland, and Ray Kiser, of Tulsa, Okla., doing the honors in the main bout there next Thursday.

Between Rounds

'Tis said the advance sale for the Stribling-Schmeling heavyweight title bout, in Cleveland, Friday night of next week, has not yet hit the $150,000 mark, but business is picking up with the shindy drawing closer. The Stadium is scaled to seat 92,000 of the faithful.

The Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., is to stage its first open-air amateur show of the season in its arena at California and Superior avenues, North Side, tonight, weather permitting.

Manuel Casiro, the Mexican featherweight, battling out of Cincinnati, wants to meet the winner of the Jackie Rodgers-Chico Cisneros bout. He has boxed, among others, Midget Mike O'Dowd, Johnny Dunn, Freddie Miller, Eddie Shea, Jackie Dugan, Babe Ruth and Erwin Berlier.

Now comes the explanation of a wisecrack repeated by a fan at the recent Baby Joe Gans-Jackie Brady fight at the Meyers Bowl. Throughout the battle, which was nothing to write home about, this customer kept yelling, "I'll take cheese," and, later, "I'll still take cheese." A fan asked him what the idea was of insisting on cheese. "Well," was the comeback, "those two fellows are a couple of hams!"

Jimmy Guthrie, two-fisted middleweight puncher, of Akron, will box Billy Bruns, of Erie, in the eight-round semi-final at Hickey Park, Thursday night, Joey Spiegel, Uniontown southpaw, meets Matty Oldach, of Erie, in the second bout.

men on the first team from that club: Crawford Trent, 17; David Trent, 16; John Ragazzo, 16, and Sam Musico, 17. Tommy Boscia also will play from that club.

M. J. Hapchuck, caddiemaster at the Country Club of Pittsburgh, played his boys at nine holes this morning, H. Rankin, 17, having the low score with a 40. The other first team men were: H. Allerton, 17, 43; Ray Petrick, 16, 44, and J. Dunn, 15, 46. The second team: H. Lutz, 17, 47; H. Cassidy, 17, 48; H. Cennami, 15, 48, and T. Murphy, 17, 49.

Caddiemaster Harry Zimmerman directed the test at the Wildwood Country Club. John Bursie scored an 82 to lead the procession, while other members on the club team include Richard Holliday, 85; Stanley Trebon, 86, and George Loeffler, 89.

DORMONT NINE FACES TEST TONIGHT

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

WEST PENN LEAGUE
Martin Club at Swissvale.

MINOR LEAGUE
Melrose at Jednota.

CITY LEAGUE
Dormont at Book Shoe.
Homewood at J. L. Thomas.

GREATER PITTSBURGH LEAGUE
Immaculate Heart at Mars.
Iroquois at Edgewood.

By TOM BIRKS

Things certainly have happened fast in local sandlot circles. One week ago it seemed certain that the Homewood club was out of the City League race, and that Dormont had the flag in its hip pocket.

Then, lo and behold! Dormont suffered a slump, Abe Martin could not stop the East Enders, and once more fighting Heinie Boll is on top of the heap.

BOLL SCRAPPER

It might be a wise thing never to count this fellow Boll out of any race until the battle is over. Staging a garrison finish seems to delight the Lawrenceville veteran.

Book Shoe will meet the Dormont club this evening at Olympia Park, weather permitting. The Shoemen have a strong club and may hand the South Hills club another setback.

In the West Penn loop, the Martin club, of Garfield, will make the trip to Swissvale to meet Ed Walsh's team. Jack Fertig has the Homestead Aces fighting hard to hold the leadership in the league. Eleven wins with only one loss means that should the Aces defeat Reliance Life in that second game, the first half championship is "in."

RELIANCE ROAD TOUGH

Reliance also is having a terrific struggle in the Commercial and Industrial League. The second meeting between these old rivals will also decide another first-half title.

COMMY DAY NEAR RUIN

By Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 22.—Adam Comorosky, the fleet Pirate outfielder, yesterday was honored and feted by several hundred neighbors and friends from his home in the Wilkes-Barre district, but the gentleman in charge of the presentation festivities at the home plate had to do some quick thinking to save the big day.

A special train carried the merry delegation from Wilkes-Barre to the Metropolis. The miner folks came bearing flowers and other gifts, a fine traveling bag being in charge of a couple of the committee members, who apparently got mixed in the maze of subways and tubes as the train pulled into Hoboken.

With Commy's friends sitting behind the Pirate bench, the committee stepped out to the home plate whither the players of both clubs gathered to enjoy the scene. The gent who had the presentation speech to render looked around for the gift and there was consternation in the Comorosky cheering section when it was disclosed the present was nowhere in sight.

But the civilian at the home dish was fast on the trigger. Pulling off a diamond ring from his own finger, he stepped up and presented Comorosky the jewel.

And then, in the lucky seventh, came the birds with the grip.

Texas League Sees Third No-Hit Fray

DALLAS, Tex., June 22.—(AP.)—Spec Erickson, lefthanded pitcher for Shreveport, pitched the third no-hit game in the Texas League this season, when he held Houston without a safety yesterday, winning, 2 to 0.

Bill Harris, of Galveston, held Shreveport without a hit May 3, winning 1 to 0. Ewell Moore, San Antonio, pitched hitless ball June 6 against Galveston, winning 3 to 0.

RAIN HOLDS UP W. PA. NET TOURNEY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

A heavy rain necessitated postponement of the matches scheduled for today in the forty-third annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships. In the event the Stanton Heights rectangles are in shape for play, the title tilting will be resumed there tomorrow.

Favored by a fine Sunday, a sizable gallery turned out for yesterday's protracted slate of mixing, in the course of which 26 debates were disposed of, including a quintet let ride by default. Five aces of the select circle—Haseltine, Rudisill, B. F. Arkle, John O'Loughlin and Billy Ramsay—swung into competition to attain bracket three. Haseltine, mingling with the hard-driving, but somewhat unsteady Allison Maxwell, of Shady Side Academy, staged a stroke workout to cop in love sets.

GLIDDEN ADVANCES

It remained, however, for Vin Glidden, ex-Cleveland stylist, and Art Glaser, Tech-P. A. A. mainstay, to put on the hottest fracas of the session. Glidden, after gallant uphill fight, gleaned 4-6, 6-0, 6-4 success.

"Tack" Hammer, perennial Westmoreland County champion, motored in from Greensburg to reel off a brace of decisive 6-2, 6-2 wins, one over Silverman, a not unskilled local lad, and the other over Shuster, husky Philadelphian.

Frank Broida, men's singles victor in the 1930 Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh Public Parks championships, portsided to 6-2, 6-4 margin over young Bill Costin, schoolmate of Frank X. Shields.

DOUBLES DRAW TONIGHT

Drawings in men's doubles and women's singles will be cared for tonight. Entries in these divisions will be received on the tournament telephone, Emerson 9051, throughout today. Mixed doubles and women's doubles laurel-chasers have until tomorrow at 5 p. m., to signify intent to battle. Yesterday's summary:

SINGLES

First round: Upper half—R. P. Rhodes defeated Ralph Snively, 6-0, 6-0; Robert Caffee defeated T. Rosenthal, 6-4, 6-2; Dr. John J. O'Loughlin won from Karl Reitstein, 6-3, 3-0, and default; P. Wilhelm defeated H. P. Malaski, 6-3, 6-4; V. K. Gildden defeated Art Glaser, 4-6, 6-0, 6-4; W. R. Spindler defeated Dick Clemson, 6-3, 6-4.

Lower half—Rufus Hartig won from Duane Littell by default; Andrew Smeaton won from Edwin Clark, 6-0, and default; Jack Evans defeated Karl Wolfe, 6-4, 6-1; W. R. Thompson won from Stewart Dueger by default; E. T. Hammer defeated Alvin Silverman, 6-2, 6-2.

Second round: Upper half—William P. Haseltine defeated Allison Maxwell, 6-0, 6-0; William S. Ramsay defeated Mabon Bovard, 6-1, 6-3; B. F. Arkle defeated Don Snyder, 6-1, 6-1; Dr. John J. O'Loughlin defeated Robert C. Meyer, 6-2, 6-3; Jack Lauler defeated R. P. Rhodes, 6-1, 6-4; Paul Barber defeated Albert Lazar, 6-0, 6-2; John D. Beatty defeated Robert Goldenson, 6-1, 6-2; Austin Famaries defeated John W. Chalfant, Jr., 6-3, 9-7.

Lower half—Rufus Hartig defeated M. J. Graham, 6-2, 6-1; Fred Rudisill defeated W. R. Unger, 7-5, 6-2; Paul G. Sullivan defeated E. G. Attzberger, 6-1, 6-4; Andrew Smeaton defeated Drummond Chantler, 6-2, 6-4; Frank Broida defeated W. G. Costin, Jr., 6-2, 6-4; William L. O'Loughlin won from Albert Beacon by default; E. T. Hammer defeated Shuster, 6-2, 6-2.

Schneider Victor In Chicago Race

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Louis Schneider, of Indianapolis, winner of the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway automobile race Memorial Day, added more points in his quest for the national championship yesterday by winning the Roby Speedway mile test. Joe Cummings, of Indianapolis, was second with Sam Ross, Ann Arbor, Mich., third, and Lou Meyer, Los Angeles, fourth. They were the only finishers out of a starting field of 12.

ROSS SCORES ACE

Coggeshall Keeps Western Net Title

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Harris Coggeshall, of Des Moines, one of the midwest's ranking tennis stars, retained the western singles title yesterday, and gained two legs on the McClintock Cup, which has been in circulation for 24 years, by a sparkling 3-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-3 triumph over Marcel Rainville, ace of Canada's Davis Cup forces.

SEVEN GOLF EVENTS TODAY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

A state championship, that of the Pennsylvania Society, Sons of the American Revolution, and six other tournaments are being played in the Pittsburgh sector today, despite the heavy rain.

A professionals' tournament, which originally had been slated for today at the Uniontown Country Club, has been changed to Monday, July 27.

Two events are in progress at the Pittsburgh Field Club. The S. A. R. golfers are playing for the title won last year by J. Denny St. Clair, former Kiski star and West Penn champion, who is playing at Olympia Fields, Chicago, for Williams, in the National Intercollegiate championship and will be unable to be on hand to defend his laurels.

The first tourney for the Duquesne University Alumni Association also was scheduled to take place at the Aspinwall links.

BOND CLUB PLAYS

The caddiemasters and assistant professionals, those of them who have paid their dues in full, are participating in the bi-weekly competition of their association at the Stanton Heights Golf Club.

A special event has been carded by the Hotel, Club and Restaurant Men's Golf Association for the Chartiers Heights Country Club. Following today's golf the women will join the men in an informal dinner and bridge party.

The Goldsbury and Roberts associates are trying to beat Frank Schwartz at the St. Clair Country Club, and a big feed is to follow the golf there, also.

VETERANS CLASH

Tomorrow, the Western Pennsylvania Seniors championship is to be played at the Oakmont Country Club. It was postponed from last week. Dr. George T. Gregg, national seniors' champion, will be on hand to defend his crown. The revised pairings and starting times follow:

10:45—G. L. Craig, J. C. Aufhammer, Edward Worthington. 10:10—Frank Slocum and W. B. Hewitt. 10:30—R. G. Scott, A. A. Lansbury, J. F. Horn and Theodore Biehl. 12:00—C. Head, J. T. Hughes, J. M. Amison, W. Bower. 12:25—L. Brandt, J. M. Coates, W. W. Mearkle and H. A. Reed. 1:00—George T. Gregg, George A. Ormiston, R. H. Smith, T. S. Jamison. 1:35—H. A. Friday, L. P. Monaghan, G. A. Gill, C. McClure. 1:25—E. S. Kuhn, S. C. Marshall, W. H. Hochberg, W. H. Nichols. 1:35—W. C. Carnegie, W. A. Kulp, T. Nugent, F. O. Adams. 1:40—T. A. Hunter, W. L. Throckmorton, W. C. Tamplin. 1:45—Walter Williams, C. L. Bears, E. E. Brainerd, H. R. McMahon. 1:50—Grant Dilbert, A. C. Houston, E. S. Montgomery. 1:55—Allen Fink, L. H. Gerhofer, J. G. Burford, W. D. Jones. 2:00—Dr. O. C. Gaub, W. F. McCullough, Dr. W. C. Meanor, J. R. Munce. 2:05, J. P. Coleman, E. E. Hewitt, Sr., Dr. G. E. Simpson. 2:10—W. H. Williams, T. W. Friend, J. C. Trees, J. S. Weller. 2:15—Frank Loeb, I. Hollander. 2:25—H. C. Kink, W. C. McKinney, A. W. Herron, Norwood Johnston. 2:30—H. F. Clarke, B. S. Taylor. 3:00—H. H. Hunter, G. W. Kepler, W. A. Irwin, G. S. Jenks.

WOOD TO FACE BROOKLYN

he was replaced at bat by Ervin Brame. Pitcher Bill Morell fanned the slugger in the clinch. Grace then scored as Brother Lloyd forced Mosolf. Larry French rushed to the scene in the home half. Larry was in plenty of trouble in the four remaining rounds. But he had the stuff when the victory was at stake.

It fell to the lot of George Grantham to be a big hero of the battle after he had been something entirely different. In the course of the game, George had committed no less than four errors, his three bad throws and a fumble putting the Pittsburgh cause in jeopardy.

But when Grantham came up to face Heving in the eleventh, he socked a single to center and a moment later he and Traynor were on second and first as Jackson fumbled a toss from Marshall.

ERRORS COSTLY

Comorosky followed with a sacrifice that had an important bearing on the game. O'Farrell had to make a hurried throw to Marshall who covered first. Commy crashed into Eddie and the ball rolled away from the utility player. The Polish flyer was safe, Grantham scored and Traynor raced to third.

The clever Lindstrom then put another wrench into the Pirate machine. On the previous day, Fred robbed the Buccos of a game and Suhr of a homer by a wonderful catch. In yesterday's crisis, he skimmed up the rightfield wall for a one-hand catch of a liner that should have been an extra-base hit. Traynor tallied after the catch with what proved to be the winning run, for the Giants, thanks to Lindstrom, became obnoxious in the home half. Fred tripled with one out and he scored on Terry's single. French then went to work and got out of the mess.

WASHINGTON PARK MUTUELS

BLOW TO BODY STOWS AWAY SPAR MATE

GEAUGA LAKE, O., June 22.—(INS.)—Young Stribling today had chalked up his first knockout during training for his heavyweight championship bout with Max Schmeling, in Cleveland, July 3.

It was K. O. Kitts, Akron heavyweight, who went down and took the count last night, after being on the receiving end of a stiff left blow to the body.

More than 2,000 paid customers saw the blow administered after having loudly called upon the Georgia challenger to score at least one knockout before his fight with Herr Maxie. Strib has been wearing heavy 16-ounce gloves and his ring sessions have been completely lacking in knockouts.

The workout last night was short, lasting three rounds. Sam Tan Ward was the only other sparring partner. He stayed in the ring two rounds and took a terrific lashing.

A quiet and restful Sunday was in store for the challenger today. Tomorrow is to be a light day also so far as workouts are concerned. The Georgian will enter the ring again tomorrow evening.

EDGREN BOOSTS MAX

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., June 22.—(INS.)—Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, rested today from the rigors of nine rounds of exercise Sunday. A crowd of 3,000, including Bob Edgren, head of the California Boxing Commission, watched him box six rounds, punch the heavy bag for one round and go through two rounds of calisthenics.

Asked for his opinion of Schmeling, Edgreen said:

Max boxed the first two rounds with George Panka, the Pittsburgher. Steve Simon, of Erie, was next, and he finished badly bruised. Tony Marullo, of New Orleans, went two rounds.

$975,000 WAGERED

CHICAGO, June 22.—(AP.)—Despite the depression, approximately $975,000 passed through the pari-mutuel windows at Washington Park Saturday when A. C. Bostwick's Mate won the $50,000 American Derby. Last year's "take" was about $1,123,000.

MARTINEZ SCORES KAYO

SAN JUAN, P. I., June 22.—(AP.)—Hilario Martinez, Spanish welterweight, knocked out Siso Libardi, of Porto Rico, in the seventh round of a 10-round bout here last night.

STOCK MARKET SOARS, SLIPS, HEADS UP

Deluge of Buying Orders Swamps Exchange; Shares Rush Up 2 to 15 Points

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Although Wall street may have its shylocks, President Hoover's decision that Uncle Sam shall be a patient and forbearing creditor was celebrated with demonstrations of joyful bullishness in the securities markets today.

Although Saturday's upswing in share prices had been so violent as to cause some misgivings in brokerage circles, the announcement of a definite proposition to declare a one-year holiday on war debt payments after the close of that session brought a further violent extension of the advances today.

The market was swamped with buying orders at the opening, shooting up 2 to 15 points, as 1,000,000 shares were traded in the first half hour. The list sold off considerably during the morning, but pushed back to around its best levels after midday. Several prominent issues got up 4 to 8 points, including United States Steel, American Telephone and Bethlehem. Auburn pushed up 15, but failed to hold all of its gain.

This dramatic upturn in share values comes at a time when heavy industries are lapsing into mid-summer sluggishness, when second quarter earnings statements are about to make their appearance, and are expected to cause many disappointments, and on the eve of several important dividend meetings, over which Wall street is none too hopeful.

That Wall street should turn bullish over a proposal which will cost the government some quarter of a billion in collections during the next year, when the treasury is faced with a billion dollar deficit, is not difficult to understand, when the extent of the anxiety which has been felt over the foreign financial situation is fully realized. After all, the treasury was able to float $800,000,000 in securities only a week ago, and have the issues oversubscribed seven and a half times.

Commodities and bonds joined the advance in stocks. It is pointed out that the proposed moratorium involves only intergovernmental debts, and therefore strengthens foreign bonds sold to private investors in this country.

In stocks, the rails were not as buoyant as some groups, as various gossip was heard over the prospect of higher freight rates. One theory heard is that the Interstate Commerce Commission may be reluctant to grant the carriers much in the way of relief until some measure is taken of the seasonal autumn upturn in trade.

Bituminous Coal Production Gains

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Production of soft coal during the week ended June 13 is estimated at 6,674,000 net tons by the Bureau of Mines, an increase of 89,000 tons over the preceding week.

Total output of soft coal during the present calendar year to June 13, amounts to 173,871,000 net tons, against 211,156,000 net tons a year ago and 235,103,000 in 1929.

Auto Registrations Decline for May

NEW YORK, June 22.—Passenger automobile registrations in May in the first 18 states to report showed that new registrations totaled 68.2 per cent of the 84,859 cars titled in the same states in May, 1930. For the first five months registrations amounted to 774,651, compared with 1,117,477 in the like period of 1930.

Plan Further Curb On Tin Production

LONDON, June 22.—Because tin producers in federated Malay states exceeded export quotas during the first quarter's operation of the restriction plan, further curtailment must be made during the next three months.

Actual output for the period was 14,408 tons. The export quota for the six months is 24,809 tons. Therefore, exports for the next quarter must be cut to 10,411 tons.

Canadian Carriers Load More Cars

MONTREAL, June 22.—Canadian carriers loaded 52,161 cars during the week ended June 13, comparing with 49,957 carloads in the preceding week and 64,662 in the similar 1930 period.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 22.—Cotton opened firm today 48 to 53 points higher. The demand sent prices up to 9.45 for July and 10.06 for December, making an advance of about 125 per bale from the low record price touched early in the month. Reactions followed, but the demand continued in sufficient volume to give the market a steady undertone at the end of the first half hour when the active months showed net gains of 35 to 38 points.

The selling attracted by the opening advance of approximately $2.00 per bale soon took off later in the morning. Offerings tapered off as the lower prices, however, and the market later was quiet and steady. At midday July was selling around 9.20, and December 9.88c or about 30 to 36 points net higher.

LIVERPOOL, June 22.—Cotton spot moderate business done; prices 46 points higher. American good middling 6.00; good middling 5.86; strict middling 5.49; middling 5.25; strict low middling 5.05; low middling 4.80; strict good ordinary 4.60; good ordinary 4.30. Sales 6,000 bales, including 3,200 American. Receipts, 11,000. American, 10,500. Futures closed barely steady: July 5.20; October 5.44; December, 5.51; January, 5.25; March, 5.48; May, 5.48.

Retail Turnover In U. S. Huge Last Year

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Census of distribution figures showed annual sales through retail stores of the United States of approximately $50,000,000,000, while total retail sales through all channels exceeded $53,000,000,000, the $3,000,000,000 being accounted for by direct sales of manufacturers and other producers.

This stupendous figure, which is based on the census of distribution for 1930, is nearly two-thirds of the unofficially estimated total annual income of the country from all sources and five times the value of the average farm crop.

Report Pennsylvania R. R. Will Cut Dividend at Wednesday Meeting

Because of the decline in Pennsylvania's earnings so far this year, there is increasing interest as to what might be done on the dividend. Advices from Philadelphia are that action on the matter may be taken at the meeting of directors Wednesday, due to the fact that the usual summer adjournment time is approaching. Nothing has come from official quarters on the dividend, but many in that city believe that the rate may be reduced to $3-a-share annual basis.

Adherence to the new sheet prices will mean considerable improvement for American Rolling Mill. There has been some betterment in recent months, according to New York interests, and the showing for the second quarter of this year is expected to be much better than that for the first three months when a loss of more than $600,000 was recorded. The management has worked steadily on economies and efficiency which will be reflected more clearly when business has turned definitely for the better.

Wall street found the news from Washington bearing on the foreign financial situation the most satisfying that has come out of the Capitol in many a long day. The financial community for some time past had realized that the foreign debt situation was one of the matters which must be taken up for consideration before any definite turn in the world business outlook could be anticipated. Whether relief for the German crisis takes the form of a "moratorium" or the extension of an immense American credit to that country is of little moment. Relief is what is essential and the form in which it is to be advanced is a secondary consideration.

Solution of so vast a problem naturally will take much discussion and time but the big point is that the machinery for treating the matter has apparently been oiled and set in motion. Though it is still maintained that there is no connection between "reparations" and war debts, the fact remains that a moratorium on the former will undoubtedly be made the basis for a temporary suspension of service on the latter. The status of foreign credit position is emphasized by the fact that sales of foreign bonds in our market to date this year have totaled only $259,000,000, contrasting with almost $750,000,000 in the corresponding period last year. This makes it apparent that something has to be done of necessity to enhance the buying power of nations abroad and accordingly the move now afoot is subject to bullish interpretation.

Diamond Match has been acting comparatively well in the past few weeks, and has, at times, shown signs of resistance to moderate liquidation. On several occasions talk of good buying in the stock has been heard. The company's diversification is one of the factors frequently discussed in Wall street.

National Steel has been one of the exceptions in the steel industry during the depression. The company was able to show a good balance over common dividend needs in periods when other and larger units were showing little in excess of the preferred requirements. The company has good diversification, but recent earnings have come to a considerable extent from tin plate and sheets. In both these products the company is in a favorable cost position, enabling it to compete for business on an even basis with other concerns.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 22.—The New York curb shared in the general improvement in world security markets today, but the advance was much less spectacular than the rise on the big board and had to meet several waves of profit-taking.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list);

Standard Bank Papers Meet With Success

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP.)—The United States Bureau of Standards has met with tremendous success in its campaign for adoption of standardized negotiable instruments in the country's banking system.

Just as the government has effected considerable economies in standard sized paper currency, so are American bankers realizing important savings through the standardization of checks, deposit slips, notes, drafts and similar paper.

The bureau reports that since 1928 there has been an increase of more than 150 per cent in the number of banks and commercial users of checks which have formally accepted the recommendations. While the bureau makes no attempt to estimate the total, the American Bankers Association places the users at around 75 per cent of all the banks in the country.

Popular In Small Towns

FRANK W. SIMMONDS, deputy manager of the American Bankers Association, and acting chairman of the committee in charge of negotiable instrument standardization, says checks are now used to settle approximately 96 per cent of all commercial transactions.

One of the outstanding points observed in connection with the study of adherence was the very gratifying degree to which the smaller financial institutions in towns are following the program. Also, the American Express Company has adopted the plan for its travelers' checks, as has the American Bankers Association.

An analysis of the record of acceptors, however, shows the need for a further educational campaign among the banks and larger users of bank checks for closer adherence to the standard sizes and arrangements.

Office Vacancies Small

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION of Building Owners and Managers reports that on January 1 only 14.69 per cent of office building space in 41 important cities of the country was vacant.

The report showed that 1,935 buildings included in the survey boasted an area of 165,611,811 square feet of which 24,321,615 square feet were empty. Three months previous the vacancies amounted to 13.92 per cent of capacity, the figures covering 43 cities and 1,960 buildings.

The survey takes in the larger cities of the country with the exception of Baltimore, Birmingham, Fort Worth, Fresno and Louisville, which have not reported.

DEBT HOLIDAY HAILED AS TRADE AID

Announcement by Hoover Spurs Organized Drive For Business Recovery

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, June 21. — After months of futility and standpattism, business and political leaders have recently begun to pit their organized intelligence against the chaotic factors making for further depression.

The new movement in its various phases constitutes an adventure in "managed" recovery. The effort is now more concerted than at any time since November, 1929, when President Herbert C. Hoover in a venturesome mood summoned leaders of industry, transportation and labor to match their wits against the forces of panic. Mr. Hoover at that time, before the event of deflation, sought to stem the forces of reaction by a program of public and private construction. Some economists think that the effort would have been more fruitful if undertaken after the apparently necessary correction of the boom time excesses had taken place.

WAR DEBT HOLIDAY

The latest maneuver, which electrified the stock market at the close of last week, was the announcement by President Hoover proposing a war debt holiday for the "purpose of strengthening the economic situation in Germany."

Now, without entering into the political and moral aspects of this highly controversial question, it is apparent that the moneyed interests here and in London and in other financial centers have been alarmed at the adverse effect on debtors of the collapse in commodity prices.

GREATEST VICTIM

The most acute victim of the economic change, which has enormously increased the real burden of outstanding debts expressed in terms of money, is Germany. Any readjustment which would obviate large scale governmental defaults would relieve great worry in financial communities. That sensitive market observers take this viewpoint was clearly demonstrated Saturday in the robust rally, coming after nearly a week of weakness in stocks. Perhaps speculators even exaggerate the scientific economic significance of the subject.

From the strictly financial standpoint, it must be borne in mind that there is a wide gap between what Secretary Mellon and Secretary Stimson may say abroad, and what Congress will ratify. But sentimentally, the market takes the determination of statesmen to deal realistically with the economic tangle as an encouraging omen.

TIM TYLER'S LUCK

Like Ships That Pass in the Night

By Lym Young

THINGS HAD BEEN WORKING OUT GREAT FOR TIM! THE LAD HAD SUCCEEDED IN RECOVERING THE STOLEN JEWELS, AND HE HAD FOUND AND AIDED LITTLE MOLLY GLEN TO ESCAPE FROM THE "MAN OF THE MOON'S" BANDIT GANG BY SWAPPING DISGUISES! HOWEVER, BEFORE TIM COULD MAKE GOOD HIS OWN ESCAPE, THE BOY WAS LOADED INTO A SEDAN CHAIR AND WHISKED AWAY, THE BANDITS THINKING OF COURSE, THEY HAD MISS MOLLY IN THEIR POSSESSION!
MR. TIM SAID I'D BETTER TAKE A ROUND-ABOUT WAY TO REACH THE TOWER GATE SAFELY! I'LL HIDE THERE UNTIL HE CAN COME FOR ME—
TIM'S BUDDY, SPUD, IN HIS BOLD, BUT RASH ATTEMPT TO FIND TIM, IS NOW A CAPTIVE OF THE BANDITS! HIS FUTURE APPEARS ANYTHING BUT BRIGHT, AS HE PLODS ALONG CLOSELY FOLLOWED BY A GUARD!
IF I'D OF WAITED BACK UP ON TH' HILL FOR TIM, LIKE I TOLD HIM I WOULD, I WOULDN'T BE IN A MESS LIKE THIS—!
IT'S—IT'S SPUD—SURE ENOUGH!! AND—AND HE'S A PRISONER!! IF I'D YELL TO HIM, THEY'D DISCOVER I'M NOT. MISS MOLLY AND THEN I'D BE IN EVEN A WORSE FIX—!

Jennifer Informs Dad That She Loves Gratton

(This famous story has been made into a talking picture by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer with Marion Davies in the leading role.)

CHAPTER XXXIX.

It came as a shock to Rarick, that the suggestion to unload himself of the great property of his town house should come from his daughter.

They had been sitting over after-dinner coffee on one of those evenings which, during the months since the death of Jenny, his daughter had dutifully apportioned off, as if allowing him just so much time out of the more-than-ever crowded budget of her days.

In a sense this was true. Since the death of her mother, a rigid, self-made rule, which she had not allowed to lapse in the 15 months, except during the periods of absence from the city, had been to set apart two evenings of the week, either to accompany her father to a concert or opera, or remain with him in his library.

The concussion of her mother's death, coming, as it should not have been permitted, out of an ignorance and innocence of the facts, had been an irritant that sent her skyrocketing into a state half noisy, half hysterical.

"I don't give a damn for anything now!" she had cried, the morning they had begun to pluck the finery from the waiting hospital bed of Jenny, as you would pluck the feathers from a swan. She had gone rather consistently about not giving it.

"I'd be a fine one to go into mourning, wouldn't I?"—when she troubled at all to explain. "She would be the first to hoot laughter at it. She despised long faces and emotional sideshows."

PERIOD OF MOURNING

That was probably true. There had been no ostensible period of mourning for Avery, even in the days when Jenny's face had resembled a war mask that was melting downward from the corners. To Rarick, the formal period of mourning did not even occur.

The affairs of household went on pretty much as usual, except that after the first blank weeks of shock, Jennifer began to cram the evenings with occasions. The formal dinner, never too frequent a function with Jenny, because of the strain of Rarick, who never attended, became the rule.

They were mixed parties Jennifer held that year; frantically assembled parties, without social rhyme or reason; social fringe assemblages that Jenny would have tried to avert, sometimes parties with the servants mopping up small pools of wine from the dining room floor the morning afterward, and scraping the marred surface for fresh waxings.

In the main, Rarick did not protest, except on the occasion when young Rodney Martens, finding one of the butlers' bicycles propped in a rear hall—where he must have been groping, between dances, for air to clear his befuddled brain—had ridden it into the ballroom about 3 o'clock in the morning, plunging into a great crystal and lapis lazuli candelabrum of fifty bulbs, toppling it over, blowing the fuse and crashing the evening into darkness, as he landed in a ringing mess that stirred the household and reached Rarick as he lay abed, sleepless.

DISTRESSED

"I dislike to have to mention it to you, Jennifer; you are no longer a child, but either you pick your friends with more discrimination or don't have them here."

That was the evening, seated over coffee in the library, her eyes level and burning under her straight bang, that Jennifer burst forth:

"Let's chuck it, father. Sell the house!"

Sell the house! He could have told her, almost as far back as her mission to him in behalf of Cataract Lodge, that he had already sold it.

He had.

"Then what?" he said, with his chin touching his shirt-front and his eyes up at her.

"Then what? Anything. Take me to—to Korea—Abyssinia—at least they are destinations."

He regarded her slowly, as if he could not have done marveling that she had no wisdom. She had been away twice that winter. First to Paris, scuttling home after a month, full of what she called the French heebie-jeebies.

Later on, there was a yachting cruise out of Florida waters, for which she must have stood sponsor for all expense. Rarick's impulse, when Hellman presented him with bills amounting to 21,000 dollars for this week's divertissement, had been to discipline her by radical way of refusal, under threat of public declaration, to meet any such future expenditures!

But when the time came for him to take up with her the matter of what he regarded as wanton and cruel waste, she took her place across the table-desk from him with a child-like obedience that made her suddenly seem very small to him and tortured, and something failed him.

There was a wild kind of distress about Jennifer, these days.

She had the look of a person who wants to rip open his collar for more air. She had the rolling look to her eye of someone frightened. The disagreeable thought smote Rarick that almost anything might happen to a girl that taut. What hurts you, Jennifer? he wanted to say to her. Tell me where the trouble lies?

LOVES GRATTON

She could not have told. He realized that. It is possible that he himself could have analyzed it before Jennifer.

"Jenny Rarick has left me in a hell hole," she once told Gratton, whom she was seeing on fitful occasions. "I can't seem to get out of it, chiefly because I can't seem to want to get out. Isn't it strange, Gratt? I know I'm in hell, but I can't want sufficiently to climb out. How do you make that out?"

"Stop trying to make yourself out, Jennifer," he had replied. "That's your trouble, perhaps."

"I hate you," she had replied to that, and walked out of his room. He did not follow. Waiting on the threshold outside his door for a moment, it had seemed to her that nothing ever in the world could matter so much as his following her, to unlock her clenched hand and tuck his into it.

He, too, stood waiting on the room side of that door, waiting to do just that, his body rigid, though, against the move.

Rarick, trying as he had done all of her life, to clamber onto some basis of intimacy with this girl who was so shy of him, and again watching there months of her misbehavior, began, a little grimly, to understand.

The futility of waiting further was borne in upon him. If the death of Jenny, leaving them stranded in this wilderness of Gothic aisles, had not hurled them into quick and sympathetic understanding, then it was not to happen the way it did in the benign world of people in books.

What he said to her this night, over coffee, could not have come off this way a 12 or even a six-month before, when a high-handed and evasive scene would have been precipitated.

"Are you in love with young Gratton?"

"Damn it, yes!"

There was no surprise in her voice, possibly because her mind was flooded with nothing else but the hypothetical reply to such a hypothetical question.

"Damn it, yes! Lots of good it does me."

Constantly he was rebuking her for the coarse, free profanity he despised in general, and particularly in a woman. He let it pass now.

"That is unfortunate."

What did she expect him to do? Reveal how her hurt hurt him?

"Father, do you like him?"

"Why shouldn't I?"

"You have been known not to approve my friends."

"You've never brought home much worth approving."

"You mean Berry? That was only a yen.

"I love Gratton, father," she said.

"Funny thing about Gratton. He's not money-conscious about us. He is not cowed, or infuriated, or impressed—I mean, the way you learn to expect pretty nearly everybody to be except the few-if-anys, who have more money than we have. Gratt doesn't despise money as such. He does think capital swinish. Well, so does everybody, until they get it. I mean, in a healthy way, he wants money for himself, because God gave him a great birthday present. A single-track mind.

"WON'T DO"

"He wants to write; and legend to the contrary notwithstanding, he does not want to write in a garret. He doesn't think garrets are intellectual and creative clearing-houses, any more than gardens and bright clean rooms are. And Gratton is out for the gardens and the bright clean rooms. Funny thing about Gratt. I think he'd rather marry a rich girl than a poor one, but I won't do.

"Isn't that terrible, father, I won't do," she repeated, and looked at him and smiled with her palms lying open in her lap, loosely, in a way that was pathetic to him.

"Come here."

"Yes, father."

"Let us talk this thing out. Just you—and me—"

"I can't. Not now. I—can't."

"Then later."

"Father, be good to me."

"How, Jennifer, how?"

"By letting me be good to you."

Trying not to tremble and be silent, he sat and trembled and was silent.

"Child! Poor child!"

"Oh, don't pity me, father! That way. Don't. Don't. It's you who need that. Don't worry about me. I'm not going in for martyrdom. I'm not going to withdraw from the turgid world and spend the rest of my life spreading sweetness and light through orphan asylums . . ."

No use, no use, was in his brain.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Novelist Writes Ardent Love Notes With Fading Ink

Jennie, third from the right end, nudged Rita, fourth from the right end.

As Jennie and Rita marched and counter-marched through the routing of this burlesque number the young man continued to watch Jennie. Rita saw this.

There was the customary applause, the customary return to the stage and brief repetition of the song chorus, and then they were off for their change to grass skirts, fuzzy wigs and the dance of the savages.

As they were changing Rita said, "Cradle-snatcher!"

"The younger they are the easier they are, sister."

"And the younger they are the poorer they are."

"Most always, but not with this infant. He's come into more coin than they've got in the mint."

"You have all the luck, Jen. Now if I was to—"

But the call came, so they had to trot out with the others of Alf Hayden's Standard Burlesque House chorus and shake their torsoes.

He applauded sincerely.

"How'd you meet him?" Rita whispered as they were bowing low before the Queen of the Cannibal Isle.

"Stacey's store—"

Rita gave the youth the merry eye, but he wasn't looking at her; he was looking at Jennie Yeaton, on the bills as June Jennifer.

It wouldn't have been above Rita to take this rich lad away from Jennie if she could. Rita was no longer a chicken and she was getting tired of chorus work.

So was Jennie, for that matter. Jennie had the edge on Rita in looks, although Rita was really five years younger. Jennie was actually 34. And she looked, when in her clever misses' size frocks and her wonderful make-up, to be somewhere around 18.

At the end of the afternoon performance, when they were dressing, Jennie said, "He's been waiting in his car. Come on along, only no monkey business, he's mine."

"Why, Jen—the idea—did I ever try to cop any of your boy friends?"

"Of course not."

RITA TELLS LIE

This was not exactly true. Rita often tried but she hadn't the looks, she couldn't cover her years so well, and Jennie's boy friends did not fall very hard for Rita.

"He's a sweet kid. I saw him in Stacy's getting some razor blades, same as I was. I liked his looks, so I accidentally dropped my handbag, open. Ivan picked up the things."

"Ivan? Russian?"

"No, of course not. Well, he picked up one of my cards and glanced at it. He asks if it's mine and I tell him it is and that he may keep it. Well, I got acquainted with him and then I got Diggs to look him up."

They came out from the stage door alley to the street curb and Jennie introduced Rita to young Mr. Murchinson.

Murchinson drove them out to Sloane's River View and bought them a wonderful dinner. There was wine. Jennie would have preferred about half a dozen highballs, but knew better than to ask for them, then. So she sipped the wine and said that she didn't dare drink much as she wasn't used to liquor.

REFUSES INVITATION

Young Mr. Murchinson was most attentive and he couldn't keep his eyes from Jennie.

"How about a little party tonight. We'll all go over to the Beach house, nice dinner, moonlight bathing and dancing," Murchinson invited.

Rita felt a sharp dig in the calf of her leg. It was the toe of Jennie's shoe.

"So sorry," Rita said, "but I have an engagement."

"Oh, dear," Jennie pointed, turning and slipping Rita a wink, "I'm afraid it wouldn't look nice for me to go out there alone with you, Mr. Murchinson."

"Oh, go ahead, Jennie, dear," Rita urged, "I'm sure Mr. Murchinson is a gentleman and knows that you are a lady."

Mr. Murchinson thanked her. Jennie reluctantly agreed to go.

"If I see anyone I know, I'm afraid they will talk about me," she finished.

As if anything could have stopped her?

It was around 3 when Jennie came up to the room. Rita was reading a magazine and smoking and there was a half-finished bottle of scotch on the table. Jennie also noticed three cigar butts and a yesterday's racing chart. Jennie felt of one of the cigar butts. It was warm.

"Glad you wasn't lonesome," she said.

When the burlesque company went on the road the wealthy young Mr. Ivan Murchinson wrote to Jennie. He wrote nice friendly letters at first, but when he got the passionate ones from Jennie he got busy and wrote some hot missives himself.

ARDENT LOVE LETTERS

"Listen to this, Rita," she said one night after they got back to the hotel, and she proceeded to read:

"My darlingest Jennie girl:—It seems so awfully long since you went away and my arms are lonesome for want of holding you and my lips are starved for want of kissing you. When you return I shall never let you out of my sight again—write and tell me that you will be mine forever. Your sure-enough loving Ivan."

"——but there has to be more than hugging and kissing my darling Big Boy," Jennie wrote. "There has to be a ring and a minister. You know I am not the sort to change my way of living. I've never been the least teeny weeny bit wild or naughty, and never shall be."

"That will fetch him," Rita said when she read it.

Apparently it did. He wrote that she shocked him terribly by even hinting that his love for her wasn't honest.

"Of course there will be a ring and wedding bells, for I know that my darling Jennie is as pure as the driven snow," was what young Mr. Murchinson wrote back to her.

Rita roared.

He told Jennie that he was going to be at his summer camp where he was working on a novel, really a comedy novel.

NOVEL PUBLISHED

"When are you going to marry me, Ivan, dear?" Jennie asked.

"Quit being so funny, Jen, a chap doesn't want to laugh all the time," Ivan answered.

"You aren't going to marry me?"

"Yeah? Well, it will cost you a nice even million dollars to mend my broken heart, you little tow-headed fool!"

He disappeared.

Jennie got out her packets of letters and took them right over to Lawyer Diggs. Rita went with her. She told him all about it and unlocked the metal make-up box.

The letters were tied up all nicely. But there was no address on any of the envelopes. A hasty examination showed each envelope to contain only blank paper.

"You're not so smart," the lawyer growled at her, "you should have had photostats made of every one. He used this fading ink!"

Ivan Murchinson's funny novel came out that fall. It made a big hit, but Jennie didn't even get a snicker out of it. The title of this young Mr. Murchison's funny novel was:

"Those Letters!"

(Copyright, 1931, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

God, God, why am I being like this all over again, was in hers.

". . . and you won't have to take me on a trip around the world to help me to forget. Also, I decline the Victorian alternative of going into a decline. It isn't done any more. But, father, father, what kind of a hit-below-the-belt world is this, anyway? I love him. And I want the right kind of decent constructive life that I cannot work out with anybody in the world but him. And the dumbbell," cried Jennifer, sobbing out and dashing for the door—"the dumbbell hasn't got the sense to know it. I won't do."

Once up in the security of her bedroom, which she made more secure by locking the door, she turned out the lights and plunged face downward on her bed.

Expert Advice, Free

Perhaps Council Would Not Ignore Realtors' Suggestions If They Presented a Bill.

A committee of the Western Pennsylvania Engineers' Society, asked by Council to recommend ways by which the city's engineering practices might be improved, has rendered a bill of $7,000 for its service.

A committee of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, asked by Council to recommend ways in which the city's practices in respect to the operation of municipal buildings might be improved, contributed the service without charge.

The real estate experts and building managers told how the city could save many thousands of dollars a year by eliminating waste and increasing efficiency in the management of the City-County Building and the municipal market houses.

Numerous definite recommendations were made. But Council has not accepted the plan.

Council may have valued the advice lightly, because it was free. If the real estate experts had presented a thumping big bill, the Councilmen might have been more impressed.

The real estate men made their study, gratis, because as citizens and taxpayers of Pittsburgh they desired to see the municipal government run in a businesslike way which would save the people from unnecessary expenditures.

And because that was the motive for their work, and not the desire to earn a fee, they are not content to let Council ignore their recommendations, but will press for action.

The matter is to come up again at the public hearing Wednesday on the proposal of the Diamond Market Association to take over the Diamond Market. The real estate men will oppose the proposal on the ground that it will be unprofitable to the city and also because of principles of fair play and municipal policy that are involved.

If Council continues to ignore the realtors' recommendations, it will be incumbent on it to give the taxpayers clear and convincing reasons for its failure to act.

A Hill District Park

Congested Sections Have Most Need of Breathing Spots and Recreation Centers.

John Ihlder, director of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, has started a commendable movement in his proposal that a small park be established on city-owned property in the Hill District.

The builders of Pittsburgh made a regrettable mistake in failing to provide breathing spots and recreation centers in the sections that are now most congested and inhabited by the poorest people.

The planners of Allegheny had better foresight and better appreciation of the necessity of parks. They laid out attractive areas of trees and lawn in the thickly settled section at the very beginning.

How much better off Pittsburgh would be if it had, downtown, and in the Hill District and the Strip, breathing places, planted with greenery, like Independnce Square in Philadelphia, and Union Square and Madison Square in New York!

Relief for Taxpayers

Sales Tax Would Relieve Inequitable Hardships Imposed On Citizens Who Pay Income Tax.

One of the lessons taught by the current depression, according to President Hoover, is the necessity for tax revision by the federal and state governments.

"The experiences of this depression," declared President Hoover in his address to the Indiana Republican Editorial Association, "demand that the nation carefully and deliberately reconsider the whole national and local problem of the incidence of taxation. The undue proportion of taxes that falls upon farmers, home owners and other real property holders as compared to other forms of wealth and income, demands real relief."

Long before the depression reached its peak, his experience in the secretaryship of the Treasury had convinced Mr. Mellon that—

"The individual income tax has become so restricted in its application that it has become a class rather than a general tax, with its incidence limited to a comparatively small number of taxpayers."

As a matter of fact, 2,500,000 individuals and 250,000 corporations are shouldering today the excessive burden imposed by the federal income tax.

To relieve the inequitable hardship imposed upon the small percentage of our citizens who pay the federal income tax, the Hearst newspapers have long advocated the adoption of a general sales tax.

Faced with the need for more revenue, Premier Bennett has recently recommended that Canada increase its sales tax.

Operation of the sales tax in other countries has proved that it is simple and equitable in character, and embarrassing neither to buyer nor to seller.

Hundreds of millions of dollars now spent in enforcing income tax laws and in fees paid to accountants and attorneys would be saved our taxpayers by the adoption of a tax as economical to administer as is the sales tax.

President Hoover and Secretary Mellon having admitted the imperative necessity of revising present systems of taxation, the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation should heed their warning and study the operation of the sales tax between now and the convening of the new Congress.

Under the American system of government, effective leadership calls not only for an accurate diagnosis of public ills but for the finding and vigorous application of sound remedies.

Now that our head servants at Washington have publicly advocated remedial tax revision, they should heed the warning of Theodore Roosevelt that "The value of what is said arises solely from the effort measurably to realize it in action."

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Just a Man's Way

A man always fails a woman at the psychological moment.

* * *

He may be the truest, finest, most devoted man in the world; but there is a queer streak of perversity in the masculine nature, which breaks out like a rash, the moment he knows that a woman has her heart set on something.

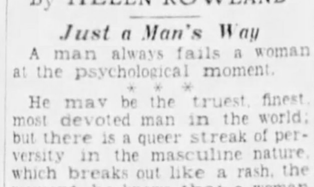
* * *

When the moon is full, and a girl is all dressed and marcelled and feeling sentimental, he never shows up. But on a rainy night, when her hair is limp, and she's gone to bed with cold-cream on her nose, there he IS, honking blythely under the window and thrilling for her to come on out and make whoopee.

And then, there are the anniversaries! The special high-lights in a woman's life—the bright particular days, when she feels a touch of the old romance and is looking hopefully for a box of flowers or a sign of responsive glow in a man's heart. Ha, ha! If a man can't think of forty ways to spoil an anniversary, he is indeed unresourceful. Besides, he can always FORGET it.

* * *

When a woman wants her man to show off to advantage and do her credit, he always chooses that psychological moment to go into a blue funk or to make a faux pas or to be the village cut-up. Other times, he may be brilliant or gracious or impressive, but NOT when his wife or his darling is expecting him to do his parlor tricks.



A man may be the soul of devotion at all other times; but, the moment a woman wants him to STAR her or play the devoted, he gets cranky or critical, and reminds her that her hat is on crooked or that her nose is shiny.

* * *

He may be as brave and as loyal as Lancelot; but just let a woman get into an argument and urge him to rise up and FIGHT for her, and the average man will promptly leave her flat and join the enemy.

* * *

And on the evenings when a woman is feeling romantic and yearning to be made love to or petted, a man always eats onions or roquefort cheese so that the sweet nothings he whispers into her ear lose all their honeyed flavor.

* * *

Perhaps it's only coincidence or perhaps it's just the perversity of he-nature, but a woman can always depend on a man—to FAIL her at the big psychological moment.

No bronze marker stands outside the Caledonia for O. Henry but even though New York neglects his memory, there are many visitors, especially from England and France, who drop into the hotel, stand about the lobby or drop into chairs in attitudes of reverential reflection. To the hotel staff they are "O Henry-ites."

And the most constant vaudeville patron is Russell Colt, who married Ethel Barrymore. Every Sunday night he is in the city he occupies seat D 1 Left at the Palace. While he sits in an atmosphere of utter detachment, he is among the first to arrive and remains for the final curtain.

It occurs my enthusiasm for the Empire State Building is not notched very high. In the dusk etched sharp and paralleled in silver it is to the great majority breath-taking. But the town has been pyrafnided so high with amazing crags I am glutted. And with this distorted vision I look upon all new skyscrapers as hideous and a trifle vulgar. At the moment my favorite building is a one-storied structure housing a Sherry restaurant on Madison avenue somewhere, I believe, in the Sixties.

Outside the Champs Elysee on a sparkling day riding toward the Arc from the Place de la Concorde, the sweep of street that I recall most vividly is London's Regent. I refer to that graceful turn a few steps from the Ritz with its chalky gray buildings wind-swept with streaks of black. Compared to our Fifth avenue leviathans the structures are mere molehills. Yet there is a somber but mellow warmth that infuses it with something pleasantly intangible—a sort of sentimental nexus with the London of Disraeli, Gladstone and Pepys.

One of the overly pressagented streets I think is Berlin's Unter den Linden. It is not comparable to Chicago's Michigan boulevard or our own Riverside drive. But I'm treading deep waters. I'm an alley boy. A back-streeter. And likely as not a no-good.

It is now nearing midnight and the floods of honking taxis are sluicing through side streets from the theater. I am torn between a sandwich at Reuben's and a foray of the ice box. Tails—the ice box and a cold bowl of highly fromaged macaroni. Heads—Reuben's and a lot of Broadway boys talking about themselves. Gangway for the ice-box!

THE UNIVERSE'S CLOCK

By Archibald Henderson

It is a fact known to everybody that Greenwich, England, time sets the standard for the entire world. Greenwich is universally taken to be the zero meridian. At the Greenwich Observatory, one of the most interesting rooms is that in which the clocks are kept. This room, which to aid in the purpose has double doors, is kept at a constant temperature which is rather warm. The marvellous Shortt clock, made by the Synchronome Company, is a masterpiece of scientific accuracy. It is a two-clock combination, namely a free pendulum on one wall electrically connected with a so-called "slave clock" on another wall. The free pendulum so acts that should the clock itself err even to the two-hundredth of a second, it is instantly corrected by the pendulum of which it is the "slave." This clock has been installed during the incumbency of the present astronomer royal, Sir Frank Dyson.

The business of officially determining time in the United States goes back to 1809, when William Lambert recommended to Congress the establishment of a first meridian at Washington. At this time Lambert had already determined the longitude of Washington. It was not until 1845 that observations of the sun, moon, planets and brighter stars were inaugurated at the observatory. Four years later a chronograph, known as a magnetic clock, was installed at the observatory; and it is still preserved, in the museum of the Naval Observatory. Twenty-four years later than this installation, the observatory was equipped with a large refracting telescope, then the largest one in the United States.

The stars are observed with transit instruments, that is, small telescopes, in order to mark the exact instant the star passes transit instruments, that is, small as the celestial meridian. The celestial meridian is the name for the line in the heavens which passes through the imaginary line known through the north and the south points, and also through the zenith (directly overhead) of the place of observation, where you are situated.

Now it happens that the time it takes the stars to appear to make the round trip of the heavens is almost the true period of the earth's rotation. The period of the earth's rotation, measure in reference to a point in the sky called the vernal equinox, is our sidereal day. As the so-called fixed stars move very slightly with reference to the vernal equinox, they are very reliable as reference points for measuring the time of the earth's rotation. The sidereal day is the most accurate standard of time measured.

The sidereal time at which each star under observation will cross the celestial meridian is calculated. The exact time, according to the clock, that the stars cross the meridian is very closely determined. The difference between the time that the stars should cross the meridian and the times they are found to cross the meridian according to our clocks, is the error of the clock.

Three standard sidereal clocks, kept in a vault at the U. S. Naval Observatory, keep the most accurate star time possible. The actual rate of each clock is determined by checking with the actual time the stars cross the meridian, and taken by applying these corrections to the face time of the sidereal clock, we know the exact sidereal time.

Time is absolutely indispensible in many ways, accuracy being the prime consideration, of course. The time signals are broadcast automatically from the U. S. Naval Observatory by means of special transmitting clocks. As stated by Capt. Frederick Heerweg, director of the observatory, in an article, "Telling the Nation's Time" in The Scientific Monthly, the transmitting clocks contain electrical mechanism by which they may be set within one-hundreth of a second.

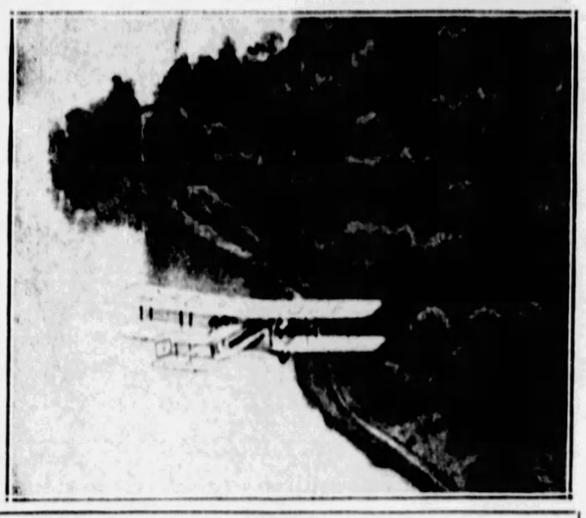
The Prince's Titles

The Best of Them He Does Not Wear.



THE PRINCE OF WALES FLIES HOME.

They shook hands, and were most polite to everybody, everywhere, especially to merchants and manufacturers and storekeepers that might buy British goods.

They went on what was frankly called a salesmanship trip, and proved themselves good salesmen.

HOME FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

The Prince of Wales has a string of titles so long that they would almost fill this column. He has more uniforms and decorations, and different suits of clothes for different occasions, than he could pack into a dozen trunks.

Above all, and most important to the British people, the Prince is A SALESMAN, AND A PRINCE AMONG SALESMEN.

The problems of production have been solved. More iron, wheat, clothes, hats, shoes, automobiles than the world can possibly use can be turned out at short notice.

The puzzle is TO SELL THEM.

While other monarchs are pushed off their thrones, or sit gingerly on the edge wondering when they will go, King George of England sits safe and sure.

He has been a good King, obedient to his House of Commons, and to his "government" selected by popular vote.

His wife, Queen Mary, has set a good example always. Her sons are well-behaved young men, and her oldest son, the Prince of Wales, heir to the throne, is a hard worker and a keen salesman.

You couldn't make the British trade that combination for any number of presidents. They wouldn't even take our kind of government in place of their own.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Do you know:

1. When was the District of Columbia founded?
2. What is the device for arresting bleeding called?
3. What name is always coupled with that of Pygmalion?
4. What is another name for quicksilver?
5. What is one who is in charge of the keys of a prison called?
6. Where is the roof of the world?
7. What god wears winged sandals on his feet?
8. What is artificial silk made from?
9. What is a portion of the circumference of a circle called?
10. Who wrote, "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb?"

Fill each blank:

11. A shallop is a light ————.
12. ———— said,
"No price is set on the lavish summer,
13. Tories were ———— during the Revolutionary War.
14. Australia was first settled by ————.
15. Another name for bull fighter is ————.

1. 1790. 2. Tourniquet. 3. Galatea. 4. Mercury. 5. Turnkey. 6. Himalayas. 7. Mercury. 8. Wood pulp. 9. Arc. 10. Sterne. 11. Boat. 12. James Russell Lowell. 13. Loyalists. 14. Convicts. 15. Toreador.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You have a grudge against one, or several persons.

You can't go to them and say just what you would like to say, so you take occasion to send anonymous letters or clippings that you think fit the case to the persons concerned.

It is a sort of cumulative vice and soon you hav a group f those whose actions do not please you and you prod them anonymously.

If you have any shame in you, you are going to be mortified that the origin of these mean expressions came from you.

If you were an honest person you would go to the person who annoys you and have it out with him or her in a straightforward way.

All the worse for you.

Since when was it your privilege to act as mentor for anyone but yourself?

It should be beneath contempt; it poisons the one who sends it more than the one who receives it.
